INCREASE DEMANDED IN ARMY ESTIMATES TO MAINTAIN PEACE

Necessity Explained by British Minister of War and in Government White Paper—Unabated and Uncontrolled Rearmament in Germany and Other Nations Leaves No Option

LONDON, March 4 (CP).—A substantial increase in British army financial estimates for the coming twelve months was accompanied tonight by the frank Government declaration that peace will be imperiled if rearmament in Germany and other nations continues unabated and uncontrolled.

The estimates for the army for the coming fiscal year totaled £43,500,000 ($211,653,000 at par). This is an increase over last year of £3,950,000 ($19,197,000 at par). Proportionate increases are expected in the naval and air estimates to be introduced in the next two days.

LAUNCHES ON NEW ATTACK

Stevens Charges Companies With Gambling With Policy-Holders' Money

HAMILTON, Ont., March 4 (CP).—Insurance companies were charged by Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, tonight, with "gambling with policy-holders' money" and issuing policies that were not based on sound insurance.

"I am speaking my own opinion now and thank Heaven I am not hampered with the restriction upon my lips of six months ago," the resigned member of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's Cabinet told a gathering of 600 at a dinner of the Advertising Club here.

"It may interest you to know that only 3.85 per cent of the assets of the insurance companies of this country are in farm mortgages. In other words, $85,000,000 has been loaned to farmers against $182,000,000 loaned to policy-holders."

"PLAYING WITH FIRE"
Money has been borrowed by companies on debentures at 5 1/2 per cent and reloaned on mortgages at 8 per cent interest and higher, he asserted. The companies responsible have "known it," Mr. Stevens said there was nothing to justify such action.

Participating policies which promised dividends based on the company's speculation in bonds were not sound insurance, he charged. In the bid for business, agents out-bid one another in offering dividends, and such promises were based solely on speculation in the bond market, the gathering was told.

Mr. Stevens suggested that insurance companies confine their activities to the insuring of people against the "certain risk"—death—and let the individual invest his own money.

INJURY FATAL TO J. A. DANES

Well-Known Business Man Succumbs to Hurts Inflicted by Automobile

Succumbing to injuries sustained when he was struck down by an automobile in front of his home at 1178 Yates Street, Thursday night, John Allan Danes, one of Victoria's best-known citizens, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital at 6:15 p.m. yesterday.

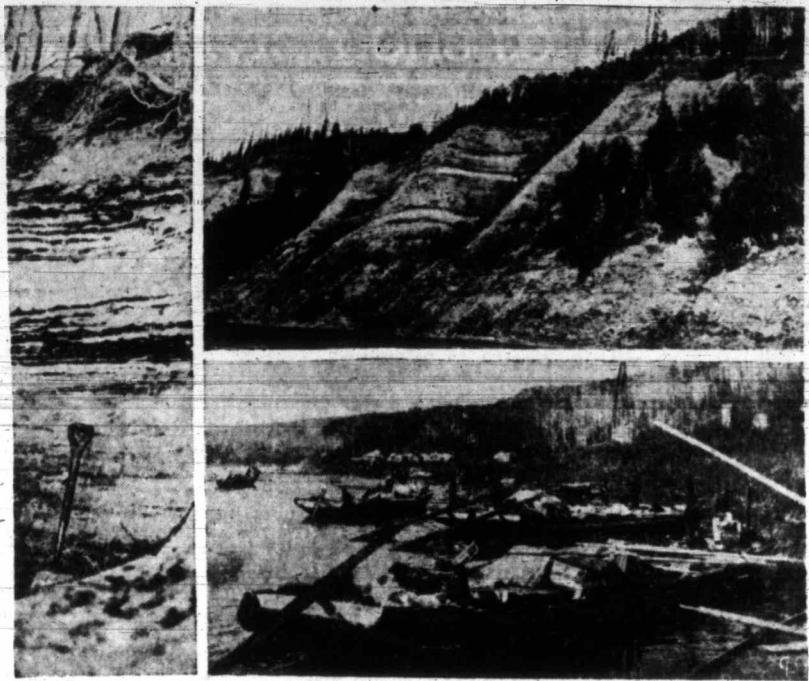

Mr. Danes, who was a resident of Victoria for forty-one years, was senior member in a barbing business at 543 Yates Street. On Thursday night he was returning to his residence at Danes Court, and had just left the automobile of Left Holy-oak, his business associate, to cross the street, when he was struck by a car reported to have been driven by Thomas Cox. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, and at first it was thought that his injuries, though painful, were not dangerous. Complications developed and he sank rapidly, passing away last night.

Mr. Danes was born at Nebraska City, Neb., in 1869. He was brought up in the Western States, and as a youth came to Seattle when it was towed out of San Francisco Bay to be sunk.

Mass Arrest in Germany Gives Jews Fresh Panic

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP).—The Jewish Telegraphic Agency released a dispatch from its Berlin correspondent tonight, saying mass arrests of Jews throughout Germany started today on a widely organized scale, causing a new panic among German Jews.

Oil to Be Taken From Alberta Sands

According to an Ottawa dispatch, the bituminous sands of the McMurray district of Alberta are to be developed, following successful tests from which gasoline and oil were derived from the sands, which cover an area of 6,000 square miles. Photos show, left, bituminous sand exposure on the Athabasca River near McMurray. Upper right, oil sands, after top layer of vegetation and trees removed near McMurray. Lower right, some of the supply boats and an oil well of a previous attempt to procure oil from the sands.

Payment of Additional Subsidies to Maritime Provinces Recommended

Savings Plan May Be Incorporated in Old Age Pension Act

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP).—Old age pensions measures proposed by the Government and to be presented to Parliament shortly, do not contemplate any change in the present system by which the needy aged are pensioned after reaching the age of seventy, it was learned today.

The anticipated supplementary legislation will involve a system whereby people will be encouraged to invest their savings in a Government-sponsored thrift plan by which their contributions will be increased by grants from the Federal treasury. The amount of the Government assistance would be determined by the amount contributed by the investor.

Weir Survey Group Urges Government Pay All Education

Revision Committee on School Financing Presents Divided Report, Calling for Substantial Increase in Provincial Share of Costs

TRANSFERENCE of a substantial part of the cost of education from the municipal taxpayer to the provincial taxpayer on a progressive basis until the Province assumed the whole responsibility was the outstanding recommendation of the Revision Committee of the Weir Educational Finance Survey, released yesterday by the Government.

DYNAMITE-LADEN CAISSON ADRIFT

Four Men on Structure Careening Across Shipping Lanes Off Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4 (AP).—Ten thousand tons of dynamite-laden steel, known as the "jinx" caisson of the Golden Gate Bridge project, went rampaging with four men aboard on the high seas tonight.

The immense structure, reputed to be the largest ever built, broke away from two tugs five miles outside the Golden Gate and was reported careening wildly across shipping lanes.

It was loaded with dynamite at Oakland early today, and had been towed out of San Francisco Bay to be sunk.

GOVERNOR'S WIFE SAFE AND UNHURT

LIVINGSTONE, Northern Rhodesia, March 4 (CP-Reuters).—Anxiously sought in wild territory since their disappearance on a plane flight four days ago, Lady Margaret Young and Dr. James Kerby, Government medical officer, today were reported safe and unharmed.

White Commission Majority Advocates Increased Annual Grants

DISSENTER CLAIMS SUMS NOT SUFFICIENT

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP).—Payment of additional annual subsidies to the Maritime Provinces is recommended in a majority report of the White Royal Commission on financial arrangements between the Dominion and the Atlantic provinces.

The additional yearly subsidies recommended in the report, tabled today in the House of Commons by Sir George Perley in the absence of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, are: To Nova Scotia, $1,300,000; To New Brunswick, $900,000; To Prince Edward Island, $275,000.

The recommended additional subsidies are to be in substitution for the interim yearly subsidies recommended by the Duncan Commission. They are proposed to become effective April 1, replacing the interim yearly payments under the Duncan report of $875,000 to Nova Scotia, $600,000 to New Brunswick, and $125,000 to Prince Edward Island. In addition, the "regular" annual

PLANS SUBSIDY FOR U.S. SHIPS

Roosevelt Asks Congress to Maintain Adequate Merchant Marine

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP).—Proposing an end to the "subsidy" of "disguised subsidies," President Roosevelt today gave Congress by special message three reasons why he thought the United States should maintain an adequate merchant marine, under an outright subsidy plan.

First, reactions indicated sufficient sentiment to carry his proposals forward. But with the crash of other affairs in Congress there appeared little likelihood of immediate action.

FAIR COMPETITION
The President said, first, that other nations give peace-time subsidies to their shipping and that "the maintenance of fair competition alone" called for a sufficient number of American flag ships to carry "a reasonable portion of our foreign commerce."

His second and third reasons were that ships would be needed if other nations were at war so that commerce might go ahead, and that if the United States were at war naval auxiliaries would be needed. Thus he proposed to abolish the indirect subsidy given through mail contracts and provide direct gifts.

NEWFOUNDLAND HAS THUNDER IN WINTER

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 5 (CP).—A violent winter electrical storm raged in Newfoundland, destroyed homes and smashed windows in several sections of St. John's today.

GREEK GOVERNMENT PREPARING FOR CRUSHING BATTLE ON SEA

Russians Declare Feasibility Proven Of Rocket Planes

MOSCOW, March 4 (AP).—A congress of leading Russian scientists and aeronautical experts decided today that Soviet experiments have definitely established the possibility of making rocket planes to carry passengers in the upper stratosphere, twenty to thirty miles above the earth's surface. It was announced that stratospheric flights in these devices were meant to prepare the way for eventual inter-planetary communication, starting possibly with a flight to the moon.

Taking Measures to Prevent Bombardment of Saloniki and Combining of Rebel Forces—Crete in Hands of Insurgents Headed by Venizelos—Government Claims Victory on Land

Mutiny Develops to Status Of Unmistakeable Civil War

ATHENS, March 5.—After a smashing land victory, the Government rushed mine layers to Saloniki early today to mine the harbor's entrance and prevent any attempt by the rebel fleet to put in at the Macedonian port. This action strengthened reports that the Government was determined to "smoke out" the insurgent fleet from Souda Bay, off Crete, and force a decisive sea battle today.

Two destroyers and two submarines were steaming for Souda Bay as an advance guard and four other warships were clearing their decks for action. No chances were being taken on the fleet's bombardment of Saloniki, Macedonia's stronghold, and combining with rebel forces in that section.

TUNE UP BOMBERS
Airport mechanics worked all night tuning up twenty-two giant bombing planes to aid in the concerted naval attack.

An unconfirmed report said the rebel cruiser Helles was waiting to speed former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, rebel leader, from Crete, as a fugitive, to the Italian island of Rhodes.

Reports of sporadic fighting in Eastern Macedonia trickled in throughout the night.

IN GRIP OF WAR
ATHENS, March 4 (CP-Havas).—Civil war gripped Greece tonight, with the island of Crete still in the hands of Venizelist rebels and naval and air attacks pending, and fierce fighting spreading through Thrace and Macedonia, though Athens and surrounding territory were calm enough.

SEE MARVEL OF SURGERY

Canadian-Born Doctor Performs Extraordinary Difficult Operation

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 4 (AP).—The "upside down" stomach of Aloyce Jane McHenry was set right today in a prolonged operation of peculiar difficulty, operation carrying an added touch seemingly drawn from the child's own faith.

Late in the afternoon attending physicians described her condition as satisfactory. They said she was sleeping and that her pulse was 120, about normal.

Whispers were repeatedly heard in the operating room, as the chief surgeon, Dr. Philemon E. Truesdale, a native of Rawdon, Que., performed his delicate task.

"Bully!" was one spoken fervently. "That's splendid!" was another.

SKILFUL WORK

All was heartfelt cheers for the chief surgeon as one after another the knotty tangle of vital organs untangled under his swiftly-moving fingers.

Whether the prayers are to be answered was unknown tonight. The strain was terrific on the child, but she stood it surprisingly well. She has apparently a good chance, but it may be several days before there is certainty.

Virtually all Aloyce's digestive organs were up in her chest where her left lung should be. The lung, too, was there, collapsed under the pressure. Stomach, intestines, large and small, spleen and appendix, were in the chest.

It was the appendix that forced a change in the plans of the operation after her chest was opened. Dr. Truesdale had expected to let the organs move slowly and gently down from the chest to the almost empty abdomen.

They were born in the wrong place. There might not be room enough for them in the abdomen, but if the change could be made slowly the abdomen would adjust.

THE CHIEF DANGER

The appendix, however, was up near her heart level instead of down near her right hip bone. To save her life the whole change had to be made in a single operation. Dr. Truesdale had to free adhesions, tissues which fastened the misplaced organs to chest wall, and even to her heart covering. The famous upside-down stomach itself was one of the first to get started down. It was tight under Aloyce's left shoulder.

One of the last and most difficult feats was to sew up the diaphragm, in which Dr. Truesdale had made an opening five inches long and three across in order to let the lost digestive organs pass down from the chest cavity.

TIME MUST TELL

The operation, on superficial appearances, accomplished everything desired. The question of Aloyce's life, however, depends to quite an extent on whether the abdomen that never had these digestive organs can accommodate itself to them now on such short notice. The child has been weak for more than two months because she was unable either to drink enough water or to take enough food. Hence, Dr. Truesdale insists, some time must pass before the result can be safely predicted.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the "owies." Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

Get those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "go and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 50-cent drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

DISCHARGED WITH THANKS

Manfred von Killinger, Premier of Saxony, was "discharged with thanks for his services" by Reichsführer Hitler.

Reports were circulated that Hermann Esser, Economics Minister for Bavaria and chief of the State Chancellery, had been removed from office. He holds party membership "No. 2" and has long been considered a Nazi mainstay in Munich.

The changes affect Government functions in a large part of Southern Germany.

Other dismissals and retirements are expected to result from a sweeping purge now in progress, which is reported to be due to reach a climax in April.

STRIKE IS SPREADING IN IRISH FREE STATE

DUBLIN, March 4 (AP).—The strike of transportation workers, which has made Dublin a city of pedestrians, was spreading tonight through the Irish Free State.

Movements being made to settle the difficulties, but meanwhile Dublin residents pressed into service ancient conveyances of almost every sort. Businessmen went to work on foot, bicycles and roller skates.

VANCOUVER, March 4 (CP).—Safecrackers who broke into the premises of Hoy's Crescent Dairy, Limited, overnight escaped with $200, nearly all in cash. The combination safe dial was broken off, the numbers punched back and the door forced.

COMMITTEE TO ASK FOR FACTS

Ottawa Trips and Cranbrook Motor Purchases Engage Accounts Panel

Blocked by rules of the Legislature from securing data on the cost of ministerial trips to Ottawa last year, and facts as to the extent of Government purchases of trucks and cars from a Cranbrook motor agency, in which the Honorable the Minister of Public Works was said to be president and majority stockholder, the public accounts committee moved unanimously yesterday to secure leave of the House to amend the rules. The committee said it wanted the facts "without waiting a year to get them, when the next issue of the Public Accounts is rendered."

H. E. Winch (C.C.F., Vancouver East) renewed his drive to secure details as to items totaling $2,150 in connection with the first trip to Ottawa, included in the accounts regularly before the committee, those for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1934. The items included $1,200 for expenses paid to the Premier, $800 for expenses paid to the assistant to the Premier, and $150 under miscellaneous votes explained as "entertainment."

He was told no detailed statement could be secured for these accounts.

GAVE DETAILS

Expenses of R. W. Bruhn, former Minister of Public Works, who went to Ottawa on a twenty-seven-day trip earlier in the same year, were presented in detail. Mr. Bruhn's expenses were $422, and were itemized in full. Mr. Bruhn explained he made no charge for entertainment, but bore all such expense out of his own pocket. He had never known ministerial accounts to be presented in blank "without details," he concluded.

Mr. Winch reverted to bills for provincial motor purchases and repairs at Cranbrook, asking details of these accounts. Blocked by the same rule of the Legislature, that only accounts to the end of the previous fiscal year could be examined, the first member for Vancouver East continued his drive until he had won a straight resolution out of the committee.

Thomas King (Liberal, Columbia) moved that the House be asked for full authority to examine accounts up to present date. W. J. Assestine, chairman, announced this resolution had carried unanimously.

The committee's resolution will bring the issue before the Legislature as a whole.

URGES GOVERNMENT PAY ALL EDUCATION

salary schedule; and debt refunding, were other recommendations in an extended report.

As the Government has already officially intimated that no increase in income taxes can be attempted this year, and that increased aid for municipalities cannot be forthcoming immediately, the main recommendations in the interim finding of the school survey run hard up against Government policy as enunciated in the Budget speech.

BILL, $10,000,000

The report, however, presented a long-term view, leaving it to the Province to determine what portion of the $10,000,000 annual educational bill it may choose to assume. In round figures, the Province contributes, at present, about $3,000,000 a year to education, and the municipalities a balance of $7,000,000.

The committee stressed the fact that the recommendations on financial readjustment implied a transfer of taxation, mainly from the municipalities to the province, without net increase. Specific recommendations follow:

RECOMMENDATIONS

(1) "The Provincial Government should pay a substantial portion of the total cost, and move towards assuming the entire cost, of an adequate programme of education as laid down by the Government, such programme to be within the ability of the people to pay."

(2) "In the meantime local authorities should be responsible for most of the capital expenditures."

(3) "In connection with capital expenditures the 'Pay as You Go' policy should be adopted if possible. If it is found necessary to float bond issues, they should not be for a greater period than three-quarters of the estimated life of the building."

(4) "Moneys payable by the Provincial Government for education should be provided from the Consolidated Revenue Fund of the Province, and not from any taxes specially earmarked."

AN INCREASED PORTION

(5) "As a result of the Province assuming increased portion of the cost of education, the greatest possible measure of relief should be granted to the owners of real property by a corresponding reduction in the local tax levy for education, and by some method of controlling counterbalancing increases in other tax levies."

(6) "The possibility of special relief for farm lands should be investigated."

Augmentation of existing sources of provincial revenues, and new sources of revenue would have to be found, the committee held, to offset provincial assumption of a substantial portion of the cost of education, now borne by municipalities and rural school districts.

SUGGESTED IMPOSTS

Under this head were suggested: (a) A graded income tax on all incomes, arranged to distribute the burden equitably, in a planned and co-ordinated tax system; and a scientific survey of the field of taxation.

(b) A basic tax, as a general service tax of two per cent, to be levied on all persons in receipt of more than $500 a year, as a contribution towards general provincial services which affect the community at large.

(c) Pending adoption of a final scheme of adjusted taxation, a general increase of one per cent in the present schedule of the income tax, with effective percentages on the main schedule then being from two to eleven per cent, instead of from one to ten per cent as at present.

WOULD OBLIVATE REFUNDS

(d) Simplification of tax collection, and elimination of the necessity for annual refunds.

(e) Compulsory taxation of improvements in municipalities to apply on not less than half of their valuation.

Consideration of taxation in the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway belt, and some references to a sales tax were elsewhere mentioned in the report.

BONDS RECALLABLE

Under other heads, the committee advocates application for Federal grants to technical education; appointment of a Provincial Assessment Commission; that new provincial or municipal bonds in future be callable at ninety days, where issued for longer than five-year terms; centralization of administration in proportion as the Province assumed added financial responsibility for education.

Under administration, the committee recommended development of larger school units, under partly elective and partly appointive boards, with local taxation powers; with a provincial director of education in each unit. Small, isolated schools should be administered by the Province directly, commencing at once.

A provincial teachers salary schedule, and progressive assumption of larger proportions of the cost of teachers' salaries were proposed, as a means of transferring some of the tax burden from the municipalities and so from land.

CAPACITY LIMIT

"The limitation of education should depend upon the capacity of the child and not the financial capacity of the parent," the committee asserted.

Continuation of the present system to eliminate fees for tuition up to eighteen years of age, except for senior matriculation, or its equivalent, was urged. No immediate change in the free textbook system was suggested. Standardization of textbooks and Government printing of these were advised against.

WOULD CLOSE NORMAL

Under economies, the committee suggested the Province close one of the two Provincial Normal Schools, until the present surplus of teachers had been absorbed.

It was suggested investigation might be made into savings by economies in fuel, light, power, gas and other maintenance charges; co-operative purchasing; economies in class and school organization; larger administration units; changes in curricula; efficient staffing and supervision; business management; a unified system of accounting; and finally, by reduction of interest rates through refunding in co-operation with bondholders.

MINORITY OBJECTIONS

Three of the eight members of the Revision Committee asked to be recorded as in disagreement with stated inclusions in or omissions from the report. These were Rev. Robert Connell, M.P.P., Herbert Anscomb, M.P.P., and R. F. Blandy, Municipal Assessor of Oak Bay. All three signed the report with given reservations.

Mr. Connell wrote that he was not in accord with proposals made under new sources of revenue, particularly in reference to higher income taxes on small incomes.

"So long as an income is at, or below, the sum required by the cost of living in Canada index, and it is so in thousands of cases, I cannot agree that a social necessity, such as education, should be chargeable against such income," Mr. Connell wrote. He differed also with the recommendation against enlargement of the present textbook system.

NO REDUCTIONS

Mr. Anscomb wrote that he could not agree with the committee's recommendation of school fees; and observed that no mention could be found of anything leading to a reduction in total costs.

"The heavy cost of education generally in the Province, a figure somewhere between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000 a year, is to my mind out of all proportion to the ability of the taxpayer to bear; and some method should be found to reduce it considerably. In so stating the matter I am not unmindful of the resolution which asks that a programme of education be laid down by the Government within the ability of the people to pay," Mr. Anscomb added.

Mr. Blandy took exception to several points. It was fundamental, in any inquiry into the financing of education, that some reference be made to the general position of public finances, he wrote.

TEN-MILLION GAP

"Evidence of financial data was submitted. For example, it was pointed out that we are only collecting some eighty per cent of our current outlay for provincial and municipal purposes, and that our total annual revenues are about $10,000,000 less than our expenditure. Our report gives much information and comment on larger administrative units, but practically ignores the major financial elements referred to above," Mr. Blandy observed.

"My own view is that because of financial conditions and because of the shrinkage in our 'ability to pay,' we are compelled, by sheer force of circumstances, to reduce our present aggregate expenditure on education. For the same reasons we should also reduce other public expenditures. My signature to the report is given on such an interpretation," Mr. Blandy added; disapproving of abolition of high school fees and some other provisions in the report.

OPINIONS GIVEN

In an appendix following the main report were cited brief summaries of the submissions of various public bodies, including the Vancouver School Board, Provincial Parent-Teacher Federation, B.C. Teachers' Association, B.C. Teachers' Federation, Mainland District Trades and Labor Council, Vancouver Parent-Teacher Federation, Victoria Young Liberals, Victoria Real Estate Board, Union of B.C. Municipalities, Comox Valley Branch of B.C. Teachers' Association, Advisory Board of B.C. Farmers' Institutes, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and the Vancouver Board of Trade.

a town of less than 7,000 inhabitants, and continued to work there until after the big fire that destroyed the city. He went back to the Middle West and took a part in the home-land rush to the Indian Territory when the first lands were opened for settlement in what is now Oklahoma. He did not stay there long, however, but returned to Seattle, and in January, 1894, came to Victoria.

For the past forty-one years Mr. Danes had engaged in business in this city, and by his sunny disposition, his unfailing courtesy and readiness to help those in distress, won for himself a warm place in the affections of his fellow citizens.

Besides his grief-stricken widow, he is survived by two daughters, Marie B. and Joan E. at home, and three sons, Allan J. residing at Edmonton, and Darcy E. and John S. living here. Four grandchildren and a brother and sister in the United States also survive.

Mr. Danes was a member of the Knights of Columbus (fourth degree), and a life member of the B.P.O.E. He was an ardent fisherman, and at the time of his death was a director of the Victoria and Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, an organization which he helped to found.

The remains are resting at Sands Mortuary. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

POLICE AND MINERS INJURED IN FIGHT

WREXHAM, Wales, March 4 (AP).—Six policemen and twenty striking coal miners were injured in a fight today when police were escorting a group of workers home from the mines.

The weapons used in the battle were stones and police batons. Four of the policemen were so seriously injured they were sent to hospitals. The strikers were dispersed.

The coal miners have been on strike several days because of a wage dispute.

C. DAWLEY SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Owen and Hugh Pettigrew Are Acquitted of Being Jointly Guilty

Clifford Dawley, charged with having broken and entered the candy store of William Rogers, Yates Street, was committed for trial by Police Magistrate Jay, yesterday. Owen and Hugh Pettigrew, jointly charged with Dawley, were acquitted. Dawley has also been committed for trial on a charge of having broken and entered the Dominion Theatre. He may take his trial on both counts at the assizes, which open Tuesday next, or may elect speedy trial in the County Court.

Evidence of Constable Thomas Stevenson, of the city police force, was that he had identified the accused Dawley when he ran out of the store on the night of the offence. He had fired at him and the accused had fallen, but got up and continued to run up Johnson Street and to an adjoining alley.

The constable was not able to positively identify the Pettigrews as those who were with Dawley.

Evidence showed that the contents of the store were packed in boxes ready for removal when the accused was alleged to have made his escape.

ADDED SUBSIDIES ARE RECOMMENDED

approximately $653,000 to Nova Scotia, $650,000 to New Brunswick, and $372,000 to Prince Edward Island will be continued.

SIGN MAJORITY REPORT

Sir Thomas White, chairman and war-time Minister of Finance, and E. W. Nesbitt, Woodstock, Ont., former member of Parliament for North Oxford, signed the majority report. Chief Justice J. A. Mathieson, of Prince Edward Island, third member of the commission, found himself unable to concur and submitted a memorandum of dissent, claiming the proposed increases were inadequate.

The White Commission, which held public sittings in Ottawa last January, was named in the implementation of the Sir Andrew Ray Duncan Commission report of 1926. The Duncan Commission when recommending its immediate interim lump-sum increases, which have been paid yearly, submitted that these payments be continued until the Dominion Government had time to complete its investigation and re-assessment.

ASSESSMENT OF CLAIMS

The majority report takes the stand that an assessment in detail of each of the claims presented by the Premiers of the three Maritime Provinces was impracticable.

"We adopt the only course available to us, viz., to consider equitably the claims in the aggregate, assigning to each its due weight according to our best judgment and making our recommendation in the form of special additional annual subsidies to the Maritime Provinces respectively as a final equitable settlement of the claims brought before us for adjudication," the majority report states.

Sir Thomas and Mr. Nesbitt express their agreement with the Duncan Commission that it was preferable to make their recommendations in the form of annual subsidy payments only and not in the form of a fixed sum in respect of the retrospective feature of the claims.

"We have, however," the majority report continues, "like the Duncan Commission, taken this retrospective feature into account in making our recommendations and also the fact that the increased subsidies which we have recommended are to begin in the fiscal year 1935-36 and not as of the fiscal year following the date of the Duncan report."

The annual additional subsidies represent on a 5 per cent per annum interest basis, capitalized sums of: Nova Scotia, $26,000,000; New Brunswick, $18,000,000; Prince Edward Island, $5,000,000.

MINORITY REPORT

Chief Justice Mathieson gives as his reason for dissent that the report "minimizes the importance of 'fiscal need' as a guiding principle. The first requisite from the early days to the granting of additional aid by the Dominion to a province, he states, is proof of fiscal need arising from causes for which the province is not responsible. He also expresses belief that the proposed increase would give any partial and temporary relief."

"It was made clearly to appear on this inquiry," Chief Justice Mathieson states regarding the question of treatment accorded to different provinces, "that one of the major problems facing Canada today is the devising of some general plan for the adjustment of Dominion and Provincial financial relations. The practice which has existed from early days of dealing with single provinces or groups of provinces without due regard to the interests of all, may bring about a condition of grave unrest not free from danger to Canadian unity."

Liberal Wins By-Election In Ontario

NORTH BAY, Ont., March 4 (CP).—J. Harry Marceau, Liberal candidate, tonight was conceded the Ontario Nipissing by-election, with a majority of more than 5,000 votes over his Co-operative Commonwealth Federation opponent, E. J. Lawrence, after 90 out of 103 polls had been heard from.

Mr. Marceau will occupy the seat in the Ontario Legislative Assembly left vacant by the death, several weeks ago, of Theodore Legault, another Liberal member.

Budget Debate in B.C. Legislature Enters Third Day

Provincial Highway Plan to Complete Main Arteries, Tourist Trade Development and More Help for Farmers Suggested by Mainland Members

TOURIST trade development; a definite policy of completing main provincial roads; productive relief undertakings; governmental loans to building and home construction; lower farm taxes and easier farm credits; objection to any provincial sales tax; and a call for increased taxation on incomes, were highlights of the budget debate completing its third day in the Legislature yesterday.

Mrs. D. G. Steeves (C.C.F., North Vancouver); D. W. Strachan (Liberal, Dewdney); and R. H. Carson (Liberal, Kamloops) spoke during the day, the debate being adjourned by D. M. MacKay (Liberal, Cariboo).

MRS. D. G. STEEVES, M.P.P.
Bringing down the budget had reminded her of a performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," with arranged applause. Mrs. Steeves declared. Trifling millions had been ignored for sinking funds and relief, through poetic licence. A "sweet little surplus" had been given the centre of the stage, with ominous shadows behind. Personally, she had found membership in the Legislature neither wildly exciting, nor intellectually stimulating.

The Province was in a state of virtual bankruptcy, planning to go hat in hand to the Dominion, after having first ignored the plight of its municipalities. Refunding of debt that grew like a snowball would not be found a remedy. Lower interest rates would also mean lower earnings in the sinking fund and in trust accounts.

IN THE TEAPOT
Like Alice at her tea party, it was ever a question of moving one place round the table, accumulating dirty dishes. The public, she would suggest, was the doormouse; eventually to be crammed into the teapot and shut up very tightly. Orthodox sound-money advocates were looking still for a return of the "good old days." National credit adherents subscribed to the theory of eating a cake and keeping it, simultaneously; proposing distribution of wealth by taxation. Under a profit-system it could not be done.

Chameleon-like, the national credit flag was green in the hands of uncertain performers, blue in those of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, who stood unconvinced, and a good healthy red only in the hands of the C.C.F. Mrs. Steeves asserted. Without specialization of production for use, it would not work.

Middle-couriers pinned their faith to the financial system and a return in business volume, with or without reform. National armaments, deflection from gold currencies, and a desire for profits, precluded much hope for such recovery, she believed.

WOULD RAISE TAX
Mrs. Steeves advocated higher income taxes, particularly on brackets between $5,000 and $10,000 per annum; and raised against $15 refunds to teachers and others in Vancouver under the 1 per cent tax. Present exemptions were much too high, and tax rates much too low.

The cry of "confiscation" from widows and orphans was raised at any attack on bond wealth; but nothing was said when a man lost his home on mortgage, or was trimmed on the stock market. The Government, Mrs. Steeves declared, was mercurial, but "lacking in intestinal fortitude."

The suggested sales tax would take $2,225,000 yearly from trade in British Columbia if attempted at even a 1 per cent rate, and would inflict itself unmercifully on the smallest incomes.

Much had been said about efficiency, but she was not interested in teaching other people how to starve efficiently, the member continued. Nothing was being done to salvage youth, and promised inquiry into black-listing in national defence camps had not been forthcoming.

Instead, the Government preferred to spend $4,000,000 "on a crazy, unwanted bridge at New Westminster." The real issue had yet to be faced, and that was sanctity of property or sanctity of humanity, Mrs. Steeves concluded. Mr. Strachan brought farming problems before the House in a practical way. He gave a graphic picture of snow and flood damage in the Fraser Valley, where a month ago eight feet of snow had crushed houses and barns to the ground, killed livestock and isolated many communities, he said.

The only practical relief for the farmer now was lower taxes, he said. One British Columbia farm paid $253, mowers once $65 were now $107, and thrashing machines had gone out of reach. Tariff duties, once from 6 to 10 per cent on farm machinery, stood now at between 19 and 29 per cent. The farmer paid the bill.

INTEREST RATES
Interest rates on farm loans has come down from 6.5 per cent to 5.5 per cent, but were still far beyond the 2.5 per cent the farmer could afford to pay.

The Province should buy lime and fertilizer in bulk and distribute it to British Columbia farmers at reasonable prices, Mr. Strachan urged. Lime deposits in the Fraser Valley were worth investigating.

Freight and express rates were too high from the farm viewpoint. Farmers in China could lay down Canadian wheat at about the same price paid by British Columbia farmers in the Fraser Valley, with an export rate of 20 cents per bushel, compared with 41.5 cents, domestic rate. Certain classes of feed grain had lower freight, but this was of little practical use to farmers requiring mixed cars of feed.

BRUSSEL SPROUTS
A British Columbia farmer, who shipped five crates of Brussel sprouts to Calgary recently, sold them for $9.55, but paid $7 out of that to move and sell the product. Of the sales price, $1.48 went to commission agents, $5.50 for express, leaving the farmer $2. Mr. Strachan said.

Similarly, 27 cents per pound butterfat did not represent any return on dairy cattle. Beef cattle, shipped for winter feeding on the coast, sold at 6.5 cents per pound, after having been fed for seventy-five days. Consumers paid a great deal more than the farmer received, and the spread should be examined.

Dairy animals once worth $150 were selling now for $30, and in Alberta there had been recently sold 9,000 head of cattle from distress areas at $1.17 each. Such sales blocked the market, making more trouble for livestockmen.

SUGGESTED REMEDIES
Mr. Strachan suggested remedies. He would welcome action to raise wages, lower taxes, lower machinery costs, stabilize the price of farm products, and educate the public to a reasonable price-structure. Governments could help by developing new markets, inferentially with the United States.

Oriental penetration was creeping up the Fraser Valley and would eventually control it all. Not normally an exclusionist, he could not reconcile such development with Canadian occupation and development, Mr. Strachan said.

Agriculture, continued the member for Dewdney, had been once a $62,000,000 industry in British Columbia. In 1933, the yield had been about half, at $36,300,000. What the industry required most were easier credits and money at reasonably low rates, he concluded.

R. H. CARSON, M.P.P.
Mr. Carson appealed for a planned road policy in the Province. It was time to stop distributing road allowances by dribbles in each of the thirty-nine ridings, and to put main highways in a hard-surfaced condition, leading somewhere.

He urged the Government to seek Federal co-operation in turning relief outlays into a more usable channel, by establishment of camps on the site of needed roads, and prosecution of relief works on a fair-wage basis, with Winter lay-offs. If necessary, there were no returns from the present system, he declared.

In provincial affairs, he appealed for tolerance. The Province had improved its financial position, and had laid a sound basis for good government in future. Recognition had been secured on better terms, as a non-political issue, and a more advantageous settlement could reasonably be expected on that score.

FARMERS AND SALMON
It was an anomaly that farmers on the Fraser River could not now salt down salmon for their own use. The Government should move to correct this situation.

Extension of tourist trade development would be fully justified, and provincial roads in playground parks should be handed over to the Federal Government for ultimate development as national scenic highways.

Governmental aid to a plan of home and other building construction had given good results in the past, and Federal action to launch

SOUTH AFRICA BRIGHT FIELD

P. Caverhill Tells Gyro Club of Possibilities in Inter-Dominion Commerce

"There is a volume of business to be done in South Africa and there is no reason why we can not secure 50 per cent of it. Sympathy is with us over there, but we have got to go after the business strongly."

Thus did P. Z. Caverhill, chief forester for the province, paint an optimistic picture of lumber trade possibilities with the Dominion of South Africa, in a luncheon address delivered before the Gyro Club yesterday in the Empress Hotel.

There were two reasons, said Mr. Caverhill, who had returned recently from the Dominion, why the South Africans were favorable to Canadian business. The Dominion attributed its self-governing powers partly to the efforts of a Canadian statesman and Canada had increased its purchases from South Africa five-fold in recent times.

CANADIAN PREJUDICES
However, continued the speaker, there were certain prejudices against Canadian timber, which had yet to be broken down. Freight reductions, on both South African local rates and ocean rates, had meant a saving on exports totaling twenty-five million feet of about $87,000, said Mr. Caverhill.

Mr. Caverhill gave a comprehensive survey of the industries in South Africa, referring especially to gold mining. Huge profits were made by the Government on gold, but it was returned to the primary producers in forms of a bonus. Pastoral products were a major export of the South African Dominion.

There was a cosmopolitan population, he stated. "The blacks do all the work, the British conduct the business, and the Africans handle the Government," observed the chief forester.

MERCHANTS TO MEET CABINET

Association to Charter Ship to Visit City for Interview With Government

VANCOUVER, March 4 (CP).—A special boat will be chartered from Vancouver, March 13, to carry a delegation of British Columbia merchants to Victoria to seek legislation to correct unfair business practices. It was decided today at a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association executives.

George R. Matthews, provincial secretary, reported Premier T. D. Pattullo had agreed to adjourn the Legislature's sitting early that day to permit a conference with the Cabinet and allow the delegation to return to the Mainland the same day.

INTERVIEWED PREMIER

Mr. Matthews stated a recent interview with Mr. Pattullo had not been entirely satisfactory.

"The Premier had received resolutions from practically all parts of the province asking the Government to take action and, while recognizing the effect that such practices are having on the individual merchants, the Premier appeared very reluctant to admit that the situation was so serious as to require government regulation," Mr. Matthews said.

ADVOCATE CODES

WINNIPEG, March 4 (CP).—The Manitoba Cabinet was asked by the provincial board of the Retail Merchants' Association today to establish codes governing trade practices. The delegation instanced the situation in Alberta, where a Department of Trade and Industry had been set up under a Minister of the Crown, and requested that Manitoba follow suit.

The department would authorize formation of associations that would establish codes of ethics, practices and methods in each phase of commerce and industry "to put an end to competitive practices detrimental to trade, traders and the public."

The Government did not announce

UNLESS Colwood Park Association and the City Council can come to an understanding on horse racing dates at Willows Park, there will be no "ponies to play" there this year.

Yesterday the association renewed its application to the council for permission to hold horse races at the Willows from September 7 to 23. This was met with a flat refusal. Both civic officials and the British Columbia Agricultural Association suggest that the races be held from August 17 to 24 during the annual provincial exhibition. Colwood Park Association contends that this date conflicts with the racing circuit mapped out for the year.

Port of Belfast Busy Place With Ships on Stocks

During 1935 Belfast, Ireland, expects to be one of the busiest ship-building ports in the world. Over 200,000 tons of new shipping is in hand in one firm alone, Harland & Wolff's.

There are also two Blue Star Line boats—the Australia Star and the New Zealand Star, the latter launched in November. The cruiser H.M.S. Penelope, an Australian passenger ship, an Elder-Dempster boat, and a cross-channel vessel for the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company's Heysham-Belfast service, are also under construction as can be seen at most ports of the world.

England's Heritage Shown Pictorially In Lectures Here

Brian Cook, English Artist, Gives Delightful Description of Landscape and Villages of Old Land—Excellent Lantern Slides

ENGLAND in its most appealing and beautiful aspect, a land dotted over with tidy picturesque villages, a land of quiet lakes, smooth hills, trim gardens, and well-kept fields, separated by neat hedges, or stone walls, was pictured in the two lantern lectures given here yesterday by Brian Cook, the English artist, who is in Victoria this week speaking under the auspices of the local branch of the National Council of Education.

The two lectures are part of his "Heritage of England" series, five of which are being given here. That last evening, at the Empress Hotel, was on "The Landscape of England," in the course of which he took an imaginary tour of the country, starting from Southampton, and embracing Salisbury, Cornwall and Lands End, Somerset, the Cotswolds, Gloucester, and along the Welsh border up to Lancashire. Thence he took his audience into the Lake district, the Border country, Northumberland and Durham, Yorkshire, Lancashire and the Fens, East Anglia, and the two great universities. After a short jaunt around London he traveled out into nearby Kent and Sussex.

Mr. Cook has a flair for architectural detail, and called attention to a number of interesting points in the cathedrals, churches, inns and houses. Salisbury Cathedral's spire is the tallest in England, 404 feet. Exeter, Wells, Gloucester, Liverpool, Durham, Lincoln, Norwich, St. Paul's, Canterbury and Winchester were among the cathedrals shown, and there were some excellent views also of York Minster, Westminster Abbey, and other ancient churches. Among the interesting examples of modern architecture was the new Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, at Stratford-on-Avon. Designed by Elizabeth Scott, this was much more suited to its purposes than the old theatre it replaced.

The Lake District was delightfully pictured, among the lakes shown being Derwentwater, "the most famous," and "Ullswater, 'the biggest'."

The best way of really seeing England was, in the speaker's opinion, to go and live in one of the little villages, or at a farm house. One could absorb the beauty of the country life better, from that position, than by rushing through the country in a motor car. The charm and simple beauty of England, from this viewpoint, was illustrated in the closing part of the lecture, a series of slides picturing the passing of the seasons. Between the beginning of the lecture at Southampton and the concluding pictures taken at Winchester Cathedral, there were shown half a hundred little villages, each grouped around its nucleus of grey stone church, the chimneys of the manor house peeping through the trees; many of the great cathedrals, with glimpses of their cloisters, vaulted roofing, and other details; the yeomen's cottages and farmsteads; the peaceful streams, fishing towns; and, for contrast, something of the industrial centres of "the black country."

For his morning lecture given before a crowded assembly hall at Oak Bay High School, Mr. Cook chose "The Villages of England." Instead of dealing with these chronologically, or alphabetically, he adopted the

The character of the building materials available had created styles in domestic architecture. Sir Charles Delme Radcliffe introduced Mr. Cook in the morning, and Colonel H. T. Goodland, chairman of the Victoria branch of the National Council, introduced him at the evening meeting.

The character of the building materials available had created styles in domestic architecture. He dealt with the origin and development of the village, the cottage homes, the story of the beginnings of church life. Among the villages pictured were Salthouse, Kersey, Great Barfield, Pinchingfield, East Hagbourne, Ewlinge, Pluckley, Denham, Empingham, No. 10, North Leach, Castle Combe, Hodnet, Widdicombe, Selworthy, Clovelly, Mewker, Upper and Nether Wallop, South Harting, Harbinger, Staithe, Mousehole, and Troutbeck.

Sir Charles Delme Radcliffe introduced Mr. Cook in the morning, and Colonel H. T. Goodland, chairman of the Victoria branch of the National Council, introduced him at the evening meeting.

Mr. Cook has a flair for architectural detail, and called attention to a number of interesting points in the cathedrals, churches, inns and houses. Salisbury Cathedral's spire is the tallest in England, 404 feet. Exeter, Wells, Gloucester, Liverpool, Durham, Lincoln, Norwich, St. Paul's, Canterbury and Winchester were among the cathedrals shown, and there were some excellent views also of York Minster, Westminster Abbey, and other ancient churches. Among the interesting examples of modern architecture was the new Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, at Stratford-on-Avon. Designed by Elizabeth Scott, this was much more suited to its purposes than the old theatre it replaced.

The Lake District was delightfully pictured, among the lakes shown being Derwentwater, "the most famous," and "Ullswater, 'the biggest'."

The best way of really seeing England was, in the speaker's opinion, to go and live in one of the little villages, or at a farm house. One could absorb the beauty of the country life better, from that position, than by rushing through the country in a motor car. The charm and simple beauty of England, from this viewpoint, was illustrated in the closing part of the lecture, a series of slides picturing the passing of the seasons. Between the beginning of the lecture at Southampton and the concluding pictures taken at Winchester Cathedral, there were shown half a hundred little villages, each grouped around its nucleus of grey stone church, the chimneys of the manor house peeping through the trees; many of the great cathedrals, with glimpses of their cloisters, vaulted roofing, and other details; the yeomen's cottages and farmsteads; the peaceful streams, fishing towns; and, for contrast, something of the industrial centres of "the black country."

For his morning lecture given before a crowded assembly hall at Oak Bay High School, Mr. Cook chose "The Villages of England." Instead of dealing with these chronologically, or alphabetically, he adopted the system of "geological" classification, showing that their character was influenced by the rock, or absence of rock, peculiar to the district. ## TAKE TRIAL IN HIGHER COURT

O. and H. Petticrew Committed on Charge of Breaking and Entering Store

Owen Petticrew and Hugh Petticrew, charged with having, on January 13, broken and entered the shop of Walter E. Hobson at 1305 Esquimalt Road for the purpose of committing an indictable offence, were committed for trial in the city police court yesterday by Magistrate Jay. They go to the higher court for trial, either at the Assizes, which open a week from today, when they may appear before the presiding Supreme Court judge and a jury, or they may elect speedy trial before the county court judge, without a jury.

At the hearing yesterday, Owen Petticrew was represented by David Tait, while the brother Hugh had A. J. Patton as his counsel.

Interesting evidence was given by Inspector J. F. C. Vance, of Vancouver, who testified that in the store were found particles of wool, which was similar to that of the cloth in a torn pair of trousers found in the room of the accused. A piece of wood alleged to have been found in a handkerchief taken from the clothes worn by one of the accused, was, according to the testimony of the inspector, from a transom of the store entered.

Various other articles similar to those missing from the store were produced and alleged to have been found by the police, in quarters occupied by the accused on Simcoe Street.

One Look Suggests a Drive

LONG . . . low . . . rakish . . . with brisk streamlining that gives a realistic impression of fleetness and flashing power. One look at this new Oldsmobile makes you want to drive it. Why resist the impulse? Why not slip behind the wheel of the 90-horsepower, low-priced Six, or the big, 100-horsepower Straight Eight?

You are hardly seated when you begin to realize that here is something decidedly new in automobiles. You are immediately aware of the extra roominess, of the great width of door and seat, of the richness of appointments. Now . . . engine running? You can scarcely tell, it's so quiet. Shift silently with Synchro-Mesh Transmission, and you float away from the curb on a ride you will long remember.

Let Oldsmobile out on highway and hill. Try not to show admiration as Knee-Action steps you, without "jar" or "neck-snap," over the ruts of a country lane. Notice the absence of noise and vibration at all speeds. Sense the pep and smoothness of the big, dependable engine. Then, as you come to a stop, feel the equalized grip of the husky hydraulic brakes.

Yes, by all means, drive one of these new Oldsmobiles. It's a revelation of how pleasant, and comfortable, and economical, modern motoring can be. It's a convincing demonstration of the great value which has won for Oldsmobile its description as, "The Car That Has Everything."

MASS MEETING BEING PLANNED

Tourist Trade Development Association Is Arranging Big Gathering

JAMES W. HUDSON

Plans for a mass meeting to explain the plans and purposes of the Tourist Trade Development Association, of Victoria and Vancouver Island, are being formulated, it was stated by James W. Hudson, chairman of the association's publicity committee and member of the executive council of the movement. While details of the proposed meeting have not been completed, Mr. Hudson said, the interest being shown by all classes of the community in such that it has been decided to more fully explain the work. With the approach of Spring and the active commencement of tourist traffic, which always starts with the month of April when the gorse is in flower, the work of organization for a travel season of attractiveness is well under way.

FINE CO-OPERATION

The spirit of co-operation being shown by all communities on Vancouver Island in the movement, following the mission which visited the various centres up-Island, is most encouraging, Mr. Hudson remarked. From all parts of Vancouver Island there are evidences of a readiness to work in unison, for a co-ordination of effort, and with a purpose that augurs well for the substantial progress of every part of the Island. "We are appreciative of the work that has already been accomplished," he remarked, "but are visualizing a unity of effort that will make this year remembered as the one in which the natural advantages of the Island were brought so forcibly to the front as to initiate a new prosperity."

INCREASE ARMY TO KEEP PEACE

objective of British foreign policy. But it mentioned the increases in armaments elsewhere, and added:

MEETING DEFICIENCIES

"We could not afford to overlook all these increases and so have had to begin to meet our deficiencies. But we have been anxious not to make provisions for necessary defence merge into a race in armaments."

A storm was immediately brewing in the House of Commons. When the House gathered this afternoon members sat down eagerly to read the white paper on defence, as well as the War Minister's explanatory memorandum.

Immediately the regular question hour was over, Prime Minister said in answer to George Lansbury, Labor leader, that all the defence estimates would be debated on Monday of next week on a motion to adjourn.

Mr. Lansbury described the white paper as a "very extraordinary document." Why, he demanded, was the Government described in it as the "National Government?"

He then, official documents described the Government of the day as His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom. Would official documents henceforth describe the ministry as Tory, Liberal or Labor?

"ALARMING STATEMENT"

"Everyone who reads this document will agree it is a very extraordinary and a very alarming statement on the part of the Government," the Labor leader added.

He intimated that the Labor Opposition might have a special motion (presumably one of censure) for Monday's debate, rather than a general debate on adjournment.

Prime Minister MacDonald returned that debate on a motion to adjourn was proposed because it would enable the House to discuss the increased estimates without any limitations.

Mr. Lansbury returned to the charge. "We deny that this Government is any more national than any other, and I ask the Prime Minister whether it is usual in official documents to describe His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom as National, Tory, Liberal or Labor," he declared.

"It is not," the Prime Minister admitted, "and I take full note of this point."

JOINS IN PROTEST

Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal Opposition leader, joined in Labor's protest over the designation. He asked the Prime Minister to see that such use of the term "National Government" did not occur in any official document in the future. Mr. MacDonald promised again to take due note.

Lord Hallham's memorandum said provision was included in the estimates for expenditure on material and for some increase in numbers as an installment of a programme which will spread over a period of years. Much work and considerable expenditure would be needed to bring the army up to more modern standards of efficiency, it declared. "The infiltration and improvement of coast defences at home and abroad and the necessary expansion of anti-aircraft defences are matters of pressing importance," the War Minister added. He also listed more modern arms and equipment, acceleration of the programme of mechanization, augmentation of stores and ammunition reserves and modernization of transport and communication facilities.

INCREASE IN ARMY

The regular army in 1935 will total 152,200 men, against 149,500 during the closing fiscal year. He estimated that the army reserve should rise to 113,000 and the supplementary reserve to 25,000, while the strength of the territorial army was given as 7,000 officers and 123,450 men exclusive of permanent staff.

The White Paper reaffirmed that peace was the principle aim of Britain's foreign policy and the National Government "intends to forward this object" not only by international understandings and agreements and regulation of armaments, but by any other means that might be available. "Notwithstanding there is confidence in the ultimate triumph of peaceful methods, in the present troubled state of the world, they realize that armaments cannot be dispensed with. They are required to preserve peace, to maintain security and to deter aggression," it declared.

PREMATURE ASSUMPTION

The assumption that international political machinery in itself is adequate to maintain peace has been shown by the "force of world events" to be premature, the White Paper continued. "We have far to go before we can find complete security without having in the background the means of defending ourselves against attack."

The reference to German rearmament was significant, coming almost on the eve of the visit by Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, to Berlin to talk with German leaders on the Anglo-French security proposals.

"This rearmament," it said, "if continued at the present rate unabated and uncontrolled, will aggravate the existing anxieties of the neighbors of Germany and consequently produce a situation, where peace will be in peril."

"His Majesty's Government have noted the welcome declarations of the leaders of Germany that they desire peace. They cannot, however, fail to recognize that not only the forces, but the spirit in which the population and especially the youth of the country is being organized lend color to and substantiate the general feeling of insecurity which has already been incontestably generated."

LUMBER COMPANY DEAL COMPLETED

Local Men Purchase Business and Local Yards of Shawinigan Lake Concern

The Victoria retail business and the Government Street supply yards of the Shawinigan Lake Lumber Company were purchased yesterday by Fred Hawes and George Thornbury, backed by city interests, it was reported.

William Munsie, head of the Shawinigan Lake Company, made the deal. Mr. Munsie is retiring from the retail lumber field in Victoria to devote himself to rebuilding the mill at Shawinigan Lake, which was destroyed by fire last year.

Plans are under way to build the business into one of the most modern in the retail lumber supply field, Mr. Hawes stated last night.

The Shawinigan Lake Company city yards were established by the elder Munsie some thirty-eight years ago, to provide an outlet for the production of his mill at the Up-Island lake.

Both Mr. Hawes and Mr. Thornbury are expert lumber trade men. For ten and four years, respectively, they have been officials of the Canadian Puget Sound organization here. Mr. Hawes will be managing director of the new organization and Mr. Thornbury secretary.

EVEN COUNT

Taking up the attack, Admirals evened the count eleven minutes later when C. Bell scored from close range. A few minutes later he banged home his second marker to give Admirals a 2-1 lead. Burnside retaliated five minutes before the rest interval when Travis drove the ball past Robertson.

Admirals took the lead again soon after the change-over, when Kermode scored on a penalty. Burnside returned play to their opponents' half of the field and the count was soon even again when N. ## Dog Show Will Be Held At Willows on May 18

Jubilee Hospital Junior W.A. and Victoria Kennel Club Arranging Special Spring Attraction—Committees Drawn Up at Meeting

Arrangements for the dog show which will be held at the Willows on May 18, under the auspices of the Victoria Kennel Club and the Junior Woman's Auxiliary of the Jubilee Hospital, were made at a meeting of the auxiliary yesterday afternoon at the Nurses' Home, the president, Mrs. John A. Stewart in the chair.

It is expected that this show will be an even greater success than the one held last year at the Armories, which was also in aid of the Jubilee Hospital, and there will be entries from all parts of Vancouver Island, the British Columbia Mainland and from the United States.

In addition to the usual classes, there will be a special section for children's dogs, for which a small entrance fee will be charged. The auxiliary will present a silver cup for the best dog in the show and many prominent citizens and local firms will donate trophies for the various classes.

CONVENERS NAMED

Miss Ines Carey was appointed general convener. Mrs. Clifford Harford will have charge of the tickets; Mrs. R. H. Edgell will be convener of the stewards committee; Mrs. H. S. Beckton, the "hot dog" stand; Mrs. Gordon Kenning, convener of the children's section; the Misses Florence and Elizabeth Ruggles, the ice cream and cigarettes; Mrs. W. A. R. Hadley and Miss Dorothy Scott will have charge of the door receipts; Mrs. T. B. Mathieson, the decorations; Mrs. H. T. Goodland, prizes; Miss Patricia McConnan, advertising; armbands, Mrs. E. V. Finland; Miss Vida Shandley, the results board, and all members of the auxiliary will assist on the various committees.

Mrs. Stewart offered to present a silver cup for the best dog owned and shown by a member of the W.A. Admission tickets will include a chance to win a Sealham pup which has been donated.

DRESSINGS MADE

Reports of the auxiliary's committees were read and of special interest was the report by Mrs. Norman Cook, of the work done by the dressings committee, members of which met each morning at the Nurses' Home, and a daily average of fifteen dozen fluffs and twenty-five dozen swabs, totaling 480 pieces, were made during the month. This extra supply of dressings was much appreciated by the hospital.

The appointment of a social service worker, to be resident at the hospital and to work with the auxiliary in its special undertakings for the patients, was reported by Miss Mitchell.

The auxiliary voted $5 toward the Tuberculous Veterans' Association ball.

The members were asked to assist with the Jubilee Hospital tag day on April 6 and Miss Dorothy Cameron will act as convener.

The president read a copy of the constitution, drawn up by Mr. H. H. Shandley, who was accorded a vote of thanks for his work in this connection.

Many Guests Are Present At Ceremony

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Chinese United Church, Piggard Street, on February 28, when Patricia Rose, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Get Poy, and Mr. Daniel Sam-Jay, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jay, of Shawinigan Lake, were united in marriage. The church was beautifully decorated with Spring flowers and ferns, by friends of the bride.

Entering the church to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," played by Mr. E. Gibson, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a pretty gown of white satin, made on princess lines with puffed sleeves and a dignified long train. Her long tulle veil was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and fern. A heart-shaped jade necklace with a Chinese gold chain, and a jade and pearl bracelet, the gifts of the groom, and a set of jade and pearl earrings, the gifts of the bride's mother, completed her charming attire.

THE ATTENDANTS

The attendants were Misses Dorothy and Edith Sam Jay, sisters of the groom, and were ankle-length Nile green Chinese silk dresses, with velvet waistbands held with ornaments. Each wore a hair bandeau and silver pendant set with crystals, the gifts of the groom. Their bouquets were of Spring flowers.

The attractive little flower girls were Bernice Louie, sister of the bride, and Dorcas Chan, both dressed in Chinese pink faille silk, with hair bandeaux to match the roses on their frocks. They also wore the groom's gifts, silver signet bracelets, and carried baskets of Spring flowers, from which they scattered petals and confetti, as they preceded the bride and groom down the aisle. The groom was supported by his brothers, Messrs. Jack and Leonard Sam Jay, and from the groom they received gold signet rings.

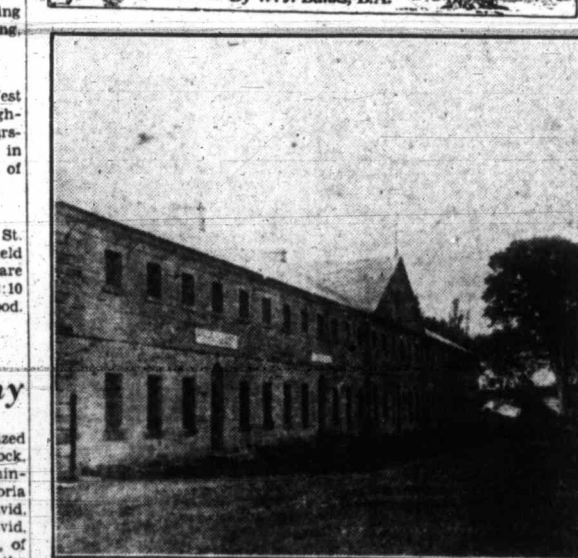

The bride's gift to the groom was a signet ring, set with two diamonds. The ushers were Miss Ida Sam Jay and Mr. L. Sam Jay. During the signing of the register Mrs. Mary Love, of Langford, B.C., sang "I Love You Truly."

LARGE RECEPTION

A reception, attended by over 100 guests, was held later. The bride's table was centred with a four-tier wedding cake, the gift of the groom's parents. The mothers of the bride and groom, gowned in a wine-colored velvet dress and fern green flat crepe with Egyptian lace trimming, presided at the table. Rev. Chow Ling proposed the toast to the bride, and Mr. Smith read a telegram of good wishes from the Chinese Consulate in Vancouver. A musical programme was given under the direction of Mr. John Bong, and the chairman was Rev. Chow Ling. Assisting in serving were Misses Edith, Dorothy and Ida Sam Jay, Messrs. Bong and George Chung. Dancing brought the evening to a close.

The bride and groom, who received many beautiful presents, left for a honeymoon trip to the Mainland, the bride traveling in a brown crepe dress, with a genuine lapin fur jacket and turban, shoes and accessories to match. Upon their return they will make their home temporarily at Shawinigan Lake.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

THE ISLAND OF NUTS

WHEN Samuel Champlain discovered that their army had been delayed by so small a garrison. The fall of the island precluded that of New France the undying enmity of the Iroquois, he noted a small island in the river near the lake which took his name. It seemed to have an unusually large share of nut trees, and came to be known as Isle-aux-Noix. Because of its strategic position for defence of the Richelieu region, the island was to play a major part in the history of frontier warfare. It lies some ten miles within the present borders of Quebec Province.

Bourlamaque, perhaps the most efficient of Montcalm's lieutenants, took up a strong position on Isle-aux-Noix in 1759, and the slow-moving Amherst, advancing upon Canada by this route, did not attack. However, in the next summer, Colonel Haviland left the British base on Lake Champlain and appeared before the French defences. Bougainville, now in command, had stolen away in the darkness, leaving only fifty men to keep up an appearance of strength. Great was the chagrin of the British when they

Begin Season With Bridge And Luncheon

A bridge luncheon, followed by an evening bridge, will be held Wednesday, March 13, at the home of Mrs. James Baker, 714 Discovery Street, under the auspices of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E. Complete arrangements were dealt with at the meeting of the chapter, yesterday afternoon at headquarters. Mrs. George Mellor and Mrs. Frank Bayles are convening the affair.

Mrs. Kylie Symons, the regent, presided during the business, which included a donation of twenty-five pairs of pajamas for the T.B. Pavilion of the Jubilee Hospital. Letters of appreciation were received from the Peace River district for clothing received.

A cedar chest, which will be filled by members, was donated to the chapter by Mrs. James Baker. Mrs. Symons was appointed a delegate to the provincial annual meeting in Vancouver next month. Mrs. Standenwick was proposed and accepted as a new member.

City Couple in Chemainus for Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Saunders, 307 Beechwood Drive, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, at the home of their eldest son, George Carlton Saunders, at Chemainus. They were married at Leasford, Ontario. Mrs. Saunders was formerly Myra Belfry, of Leasford, Ontario. In 1909 they went to Alberta, where they resided until moving to Victoria in 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. Saunders have four children, all living. Mrs. L. G. Cameron, of Okotoks, Alberta; George Carleton, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, at Chemainus; Ross Saunders, of Edmonton, and Dr. Gordon Saunders, of High River, Alberta. There are fourteen grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, although unable, through unforeseen circumstances, to have any of their family with them on this occasion, other than George, at whose home they spent the week-end, were the recipients of a beautiful golden fern-bowl from the family, as well as many lovely gifts of flowers and telegrams. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders hope, during the coming Summer, to enjoy a motor trip to Alberta, when they will visit with members of their family and also many old friends.

Arranging Tea For Tomorrow

A splendid programme has been arranged for the annual tea, to be held tomorrow by Groups "A," "B" and "C," of the Women's Association, of the First United Church. The affair will be held in the Sunday school room, commencing at 3 o'clock.

During the afternoon Mrs. H. Chisholm, Mrs. M. L. McEldan, Mrs. W. T. Strath and Mrs. E. F. Farr will preside at the urns.

"THE CHILD"

THE FEEBLE-MINDED CHILD If this article serves no other purpose than to help rid ourselves of that unworthy and un-Christian attitude that the mentally deficient child is to be shunned and ignored and regarded as inferior, it will not have been written in vain.

Mental deficiency, or feeble-mindedness, is an extreme form of constitutional backwardness, which dates from birth or early infancy, and is serious enough to prevent the child from taking his place at school or later in society on a full par with his normal fellow beings. Unfortunately, but true, that he has not even the possibilities of normal development, and he cannot be cured. It is because the brain is incompletely developed that we cannot make him normal.

We will give a few helpful pointers which will aid the mentally deficient child and make his adjustment in the community much easier.

1. Parents, teachers and other schoolmates should make a real attempt to understand the feeble-minded child. With understanding comes sympathy, patience and tolerance, qualities which are greatly needed.

2. In home and school do not expect too much of the feeble-minded child; nothing more than he is equal to.

3. Help the child in playing and co-operating with other children in the easier tasks of home and school life. Allow him to taste of success, bearing in mind that his activities will be hampered by failure.

4. Kindly consideration and thoughtfulness, on the part of adults and other school children, to the child who, through no fault of his own, is below par in his mental equipment, will help tremendously.

PRESBYTERIAN

The Presbyterian Young People's Association held its regular monthly meeting at St. Andrew's Church on March 1, at 8 p.m. Mrs. McDonald opened the meeting with prayer. Mr. D. McMillan, president, was in the chair. During the evening a letter containing the resignation of Mr. R. Trousdale, secretary, was read and accepted. Miss M. Kennedy was appointed secretary, and Miss M. Woolley, corresponding secretary. Mr. G. Warren was appointed to get speakers for the different societies. The association is planning a social to be held March 15, at St. Andrew's Church, to which the other six societies are invited. A debate was planned for March 18, between St. Paul's and St. Andrew's Societies, the topic being: "Resolved, that the principle of chain store systems is detrimental to the best interests of the Canadian public." A committee including Miss M. Kennedy, Rev. T. H. McAllister, Mr. McDonald and Mr. D. McMillan was appointed to make arrangements for the Young People's conference to be held April 20 and 21, to which the society extends a cordial invitation to all young people.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Y.P.S. will hold a meeting in the lecture room of the church tonight, at 8 o'clock. Mr. A. McDonald, superintendent of the Gorge Presbyterian Sunday school, will give a talk on the young people's work of the Presbyterian Church of Canada. There is a large amount of business, concerning the near future, to be brought up. All members and friends of the society are urged to attend.

Two men were flying down the Columbia River gorge from The Dalles to the ocean—an air trip which cannot be matched for beauty anywhere this side of the Atlantic. One man, almost over-awed by the grandeur of the scenery, listened in silence as long as he could while his companion disserted on business conditions, then broke out, exclaiming:

"I wouldn't have believed any man could be as big a damned fool as you in surroundings like these."

Weddings

BRUMBAUGH—WORLEDGE

The marriage took place on Saturday evening at the Thirty-second Avenue Lutheran Church, Seattle, when Marie Worledge, formerly of Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Lloyd Clinton Brumbaugh, of Seattle. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a gown of peach silk net, made on long lines and flaring at the bottom with a deep hem of frills. She wore a small cap of the same material with orange blossoms at the nape of the neck, and tucked in the folds of her dress were sprigs of orange blossoms, which had been worn by her mother at her wedding. She carried a shower bouquet of Talleman roses and freesias. Mrs. Florence Pugh, of Victoria, was matron of honor and wore a yellow dress with brown trimmings and hat to match. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and daffodils. The other attendants were Miss L. Schrimsher and Miss Phyllis Hayes, both of Seattle, who wore pale blue silk organdie frocks with peach-colored sashes and matching flowers in their hair. They carried Talleman roses and freesias. Mr. Wayne Thompson, of Yakima, cousin of the groom, was best man. A largely attended reception was held in the Lutheran Hall, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing royal blue silk, black hat and corsage bouquet of Talleman roses and carnations. The supper table was arranged with a three-tier cake and vases of daffodils. The honeymoon is being spent in Victoria, and for traveling the bride chose a dark green sweater suit with brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Brumbaugh will make their home in Seattle.

RELIEF CAMPS ARE ATTACKED IN HOUSE

$24 a ton for the potatoes, while farmers received $3 a ton for Grade "A" and $3.75 for Grade "B."

The three potatoes, said Mr. Reid, had been handled by a Government inspector at Vancouver, who said "They are not worth anything" and were Grade "B" if not "C."

Last year potatoes were bought from farmers in the vicinity of the camps, Mr. Reid said, but this year a change was made. A Vancouver firm, P. R. Stewart, sold the potatoes at $24 a ton, but Mr. Reid said this company should be investigated itself because it was controlled by a last American combine.

USE TINNED MILK

The camps, continued Mr. Reid, purchased tinned milk while farmers in the neighborhood could not sell their fresh milk. The farmers sold carrots at $4 a ton, and the camps paid $12.

Each man in the camps received a tobacco allowance of 1-1/4 c a day, Mr. Reid said. The Imperial Tobacco Company received the contract at 45c a pound but later this price was increased without other firms bidding. This means the men received less tobacco each day.

Mr. Reid also objected to a rule that men must be 100 per cent physically fit before being accepted in camps. This meant single homeless men with the slightest physical defect were thrown on the provinces and municipalities for relief.

SAYS CAMP DISGRACE

"It's a disgrace to the people of Canada and an insult to most of the boys in the camps the way they are conducted," said A. E. Munn (Liberal, Vancouver North). He said he had made a personal investigation, put on old clothes, lived in the camps and talked to the men.

He had suggested, he said, an exception be made of the three camps in his constituency and that the men be paid a minimum wage of 40c an hour, work five hours a day and five days a week and be put to work completing a road from Vancouver to Britannia. The men would never work much at 20c a day, but if they were given the wage he suggested they would soon do the job. They would be made to pay their own board and buy their own clothes and would have some self-respect.

CLAIMS STILL FOUND

A still in one of the camps in British Columbia was reported by Angus MacInnis (Labor, Vancouver South). The men had found the dried fruit and sugar was no longer put on the table and on investigation found the officials were using them to make home-brew. Despite a demand for an investigation nothing was done about it. In other camps the men were fed rotten potatoes and mouldy meat.

As soon as a man made a complaint in a camp he was termed an "agitator," said Mr. MacInnis. There were agitators in camps and these men should be in other institutions, but every man who made a complaint was not an agitator.

DEFENDS THE CAMPS

The reason the Department of National Defence came into the picture at all, said Mr. Stirling, was because in the various military districts it had officials scattered all across the Dominion competent to supervise the camps. By agreement with the provinces the department undertook to provide accommodation for homeless single unemployed men.

The Dominion assisted in care of homeless, unemployed men, at the request of the provinces, continued Mr. Stirling. He had inspected many camps, eaten meals and talked with the men.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Stirling, referring to camps in Southern British Columbia, "every one of those camps bore a happy relation to the camps in which I worked during my earlier years in this country."

Shower Will Be Arranged At Orphanage

It was decided to hold the annual linen shower of the Protestant Orphan's Home Thursday, April 11, at the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Committee meeting yesterday. The children are all well and are attending First Baptist Church this month. Mr. Hadland entertained them with lantern slides, which were much enjoyed. Mrs. F. V. Longstaff, the president, was in the chair, and the following members present: Mesdames Hughes, O. M. Brown, Coutts, Cox, Dorman, Hiddle, Knott, Dinsmore, E. M. Brown, Dillabough, Sherwood, Shephard, Simpson, and Misses Murray and Newbury. The following donations were gratefully received: M. E. Cariss, scrapbook; Mrs. F. V. Longstaff, clothing; Violet McCormick, magazines; Junior Red Cross, Siam, B.C., valentines and candy; Mrs. Hetherington, socks; Dr. Bryant and Dr. Gibson, professional services; Colonel and Times, daily papers; Mrs. Hiddle and Mrs. Hughes will visit the home all month.

PREPARING FOR CRUSHING BATTLE

right dispatch, said Government troops won a smashing victory against rebels in Macedonia late today, driving them back across the River Struma after killing and capturing an unknown number.

"Badly armed, the rebels retreated in terror under a withering fire from Government machine guns," said a dispatch from Macedonia. "Bullets rained into the ranks of the fugitives as they plunged into the river and swam for their lives. To the east bank, near Bulgaria. There the scattered forces rallied and took up a new position."

Gen. George Condylis, Minister of War, arrived in Saloniki today to take charge of Government forces in their fight against the revolt.

TO START DRIVE

He said concentration of Government troops in Saloniki, which had been delaying large-scale operations, would be completed by tonight and the drive would begin at once.

The Government still claimed control of the situation, with all troops and police on the alert for trouble as a court-martial began its trials of rebels arrested on Friday night and over the week-end. Police said only their timely action had prevented the outbreak of the revolt in Saloniki instead of Athens.

Government authorities charged the existence of a long-prepared Venizelis' plot had been established through the interception of a radio message from the aged rebel leader which indicated he had awaited only the arrival of the rebel ships at Crete to assume leadership.

The newspaper kettia said it was obvious the movement no longer could be regarded as a simple mutiny, but was civil war between two strong parties.

"ENEMY OF HIS COUNTRY"

Premier Pangloss Tsaldaris told a Havaas correspondent "the edition will be crushed in the end and order restored." He added that he considered former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, seventy-one-year-old rebel leader, "an enemy of his country."

Five Government bombing planes, armed with incendiary bombs, were seen this afternoon, laden with bombs, to renew the attack on two cruisers and three destroyers, caused by the rebels and now lying in Suda Bay, about twenty miles east of Cania, Crete, capital in the hands of the Venizelists. The rebel fleet was bombed yesterday.

A large squadron of Government bombers flew over Crete this morning for reconnaissance. Fighting was raging about Seres and Drama in Macedonia.

Thrace, northeastern province bordering on Turkey, was ablaze with revolt, according to the news reports that managed to seep through the rigid censorship, with all Greece under martial law.

DESTROYERS ON WAY

Late today the destroyers Ierax, Panther and Sphendoni, left here for Crete under Captain Sakellarios to aid Government aircraft in their attacks on the rebel fleet.

Tsaldaris had charged Venizelos with wishing power for himself and the suppression of the rights of the populace. The former Premier charges Tsaldaris with trying to pave the way for the restoration of the monarchy in Greece. Each claims the support of the majority of the Greek people.

The late James J. Hill was inspecting his railroad with an imposing group of officers. At Minot, N.D., the party walked down the ties on a section of roadbed. First came Mr. Hill, then the vice-president, the general superintendent, and so on down to the roadmaster, and finally Mike Cassidy, the section boss.

Mr. Hill picked a brand new spike out of the gravel, and as he handed it back to the vice-president, he remarked that this was a case of carelessness which would have to be explained. The spike was passed back down the line, from officer to officer, until it reached the roadmaster and Mike.

"Mike," said the roadmaster, Mr. Hill just picked this spike up, and he wants to know why company property is left lying around this way."

"Well, thank God for Mr. Hill," replied the section foreman. "I've had six men searching for that spike for four days."

PENSION BILL BEFORE HOUSE

Coal and Petroleum Act were contained in amending bills on those heads. First readings followed.

VICTORIA BILL

The Victoria City Private Bill was reported to the House by the private bills committee as complete with minor amendments, but substantially unchanged. Under this bill the city is asking leave to refund a portion of maturing securities as done in the past, with some downward revision of tax penalties.

In an unanimous frame of mind the Legislature approved of the principle of eight Government bills, each given second reading unopposed.

LOWER GUN LICENCES

Attorney-General Sloan explained amendments to the Game Act. Firearm licences are to be reduced from $3.50 to $3. The former game commissioner gives way to a three-man board of game inspectors, who have acted provisionally for the last six months. Propagation of game species and game fish will be continued. There will be some amendment in game regulations and in trapping regulations, to be explained in committee later. Costs of game regulations are declining, and a net profit of $25,000 is expected this year. Second reading followed.

Premier Pattullo explained amendments to the Canadian Northeastern Railway Act, under which the present charter holders will be given an extension of time in which to complete the work. In excess of $30,000 was spent last year on the northern development. The permissive extension, subject to provincial discretion, would be five years. Second reading followed.

LADNER BILL

The Premier also explained amendments to the Ladner Bridge Bill. These will insure an exclusive franchise to the company to build a toll bridge over the Fraser River, within a considerable range, at Dease Island, free from intervention by competing tunnels or ferries. The Government in December last renewed an agreement with the Ladner company for six months; the new bill being explained as an amendment making for reader financing of the undertaking as a private enterprise. Second reading followed.

Hon. G. S. Pearson explained amendments to the Placer Act, designed to simplify filing of placer leases, and to legalize a fee of $2.50 for recording certificate of works. Second reading followed.

HOURS OF WORK

Mr. Pearson spoke also to amendments to the Hours of Work Act. These will re-define "managers" to cure evasions of the law, empower inspectors to demand immediate oral answers to questions, as well as written statements on oath, if required, and authorize the British Columbia Industrial Relations Board to insist on time-locks, or other effective recording devices in industrial plants within the province. Second reading followed.

Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir explained amendments to the Public Inquiries Act, which would remove governmental necessity for passing special warrants for the resultant costs of public inquiries, and arrange for the payment of such costs from consolidated revenue funds. The number of inquiries in any one year could not be foreseen, Dr. Weir said. Heretofore inquiries have been met on authorization by special warrant, later presented to the Legislature in supplementary estimates. Second reading followed.

Dr. Weir spoke also to a bill to amend the Adoption of Children Act, stating the chief changes were provision for six months' notice in adoption proceedings and a stay of one year before final adoption orders would be granted by the courts. Second reading followed.

VALIDATES TAX

Hon. A. W. Gray spoke to a bill to amend the Armstrong Incorporation Act. It developed that Armstrong yearly assessed and taxed a parcel of land in that vicinity for twenty years, from 1913 to 1934, before it was discovered that the property was not legally inside the city at all. The fact was discovered

THE LOVE FLIGHT

CHAPTER VIII

A month passed at Bois Joli. Quietly, save for occasional outbursts on the part of Madame, who grew restive without turmoil and who therefore created it on the slightest excuse or with no excuse at all.

Every morning, at an hour which suited Madame's pleasure, Anne went to the circular boudoir prepared to relay, in the most tabloid of forms, news in which Madame might be interested. Politics, unless it were the assassination of a president, were barred. Europe contributed fashions from Paris. The Orient was off the map. A California earthquake rated two sentences. First page murders, if they were colorful, were good for a couple of sentences with a brief discussion of the more gruesome details. Mayfair was the centre of the news universe. The coming and going of Mayfairites, a majority of whom were no more than a name to Madame, was of vast import. A scandal in high society was a choice morsel. Current books, current plays in the public favor were covered something like this:

"There's a new novel by Cindra Dane, the Englishwoman who's been making quite a stir in literary circles. It's called 'Ashes Thou Art.'"

Madame—"What's it about?"

Anne—"It's about a woman who sacrificed her entire life for two men—her husband and her son. In the end she finds she loves only herself and that the sacrifices were made because she took more pleasure from sorrow than she did from happiness."

Madame—"She was a dummock. Who bothers to read about fools? There's enough of 'em in the world without reading about 'em."

Anne—"The book is a best seller."

Madame—"Lordest me! The Prince of Wales maybe sent it to somebody going away on a steamer and now everybody's got to read it whether they like it or not. That'll do for today, Fil. I'm so chucked of book learning my head's buzzing like a buzz-saw."

Scarcely a day passed but that Anne saw Carl Case. Sometimes merely to pass him in the servants' hall. Occasionally he drove her to the shopping district or about the colony on errands for Madame, but as often as she could she contrived to ride with one of the other chauffeurs. When she rode with Carl she was monosyllabic and so coldly formal that soon he withdrew into himself and addressed her only when necessity demanded.

Toward Anne Bertie continued sullen, but she was no longer venomous. Apparently she felt the menace was past, that her man was safe, for the time being at least. Carl Case was certainly prudent about his affair with Bertie, Anne thought. Never once had she seen him address the maid or even cast a glance in Bertie's direction. Yet Bertie was forever making excuses to visit the garage, and when Carl was in her presence she hovered about him like a great clumsy beetle.

Anne had received her month's pay. The first money she ever had earned. Forty dollars. Beautiful crackly dollars. A hundred cents to each one and every cent a testimonial that she was no longer a parasite growth on the scheme of lying. She had earned her board, her keep, and these crackly dollars, too. She put them away in her pocketbook. A dozen times that first day she took them out and gazed at them, unbelieving.

"I must go to the Phoenix Agency and pay the commission," Anne reminded herself. "I'll ask Madame if I may have enough time from my work tomorrow to take the money to the agency."

Forty dollars! Once, only a little while ago, small change. Now a goodly sum, worthy of respect.

Entering the Phoenix Agency, Anne saw that the bench where applicants waited was filled. A line of standees extended along the wall, to the other side of the room. Work, these days, was not an onerous necessity. It was a blessed privilege.

The waspish woman, who had at first appeared an ogre and who had proved the veriest sort of benefactor, was busy with her questions and her notes. She finished with the applicant at hand, adjusted her spectacles, scanned the bench and the waiting line. Anne, last to enter, was at the end. The woman beckoned to her.

"I came to pay my commission," Anne said, opening her purse, "and to thank you again for being so kind."

The woman nodded.

"I was expecting you," she said. "I was sure I could not be mistaken. You see, it's customary for our clients to withhold enough from the employee's wages to pay the commission. Otherwise we lose too much by employees leaving the positions we get for them at the end of the month and forgetting to pay us. I told Madame Hoag's secretary to pay you in full."

"But—why?"

The woman leaned back in her chair. Never had Anne seen a smile work such a transformation. Like lightning a crystal chandelier in a dreary room.

"My hobby is studying human nature as it passes my desk," the woman confided. "You've no idea what a hold it can take on you—peering into windows to see what's inside folks. Practice had made me quite an expert. It's a very useful hobby, too. Sometimes we are called on to supply persons for positions of trust and extra responsibility. I have an A list in my mind, the applicants I, personally, would bank on. When a position is open I get in touch with which ever one of my A's I think is best suited to the job."

"And I am a A?" Anne reflected the woman's smile.

"You are an A. How do you make out with Madame Hoag? To be honest, I was afraid you wouldn't last. That woman is a terror."

"Madame is not nearly such a terror as she wants you to believe," Anne said. "She booms a great deal, but actually she has a kind heart. Like most persons who acquire a great deal of money quickly, she has been impressed upon by those who are dishonest and greedy. She is keen. She knows what is going on. But she hasn't your hobby. She's never bothered to study human beings. She can't tell the sheep from the wolves, so she shoots at them all, hoping to bring down a wolf occasionally."

"I see you have loyalty," the woman said approvingly. "In service, it's one of the most valuable of all traits."

"Not so much loyalty, perhaps, as gratitude," Anne said. Men had flattered her, times without number. Idly, honestly. Women had paid her compliments, grudgingly, to curry favor, to make conversation. The woman at the desk was not flattering. She was commending. An ounce of commendation was worth all the flattery one could crowd into a lifetime.

"If Madame blows up as she sometimes does—discharges all the help except the maid Bats, and takes on an entire new staff—come to me. I'll place you, somehow."

"Thanks," Anne extended her hand. A friend was a friend, a handclasp an expression of friendship. "I'll not forget. I'll be stopping in soon, blow or no blow—if I'm not bothering you—to let you know how I'm getting on and—well, just to say cheerio."

"Any time. As often as you like. Next!"

The girl at the near end of the bench was up like a shot. There were shadows under her eyes, Anne noticed, and her lips were pale. Hungry.

Anne waited outside the door. If the girl was turned away, she Anne would find some way to invite her to lunch. Five minutes passed. Anne opened the door ever so little, peered through. The girl was sitting at the desk filling out a reference blank. She'd made it, then. A chance to work. One of the lucky ones.

Another night. As Anne stood by the window in her room in Bois Joli, she thought that the garden might be enchanted. It was so still. There was no moon, but a million stars were in the sky and beyond the shrubbery screen, lights shone from the upper story of the garage.

"Carl," Her lips clung to the name. She wanted to be with Carl, skimming along the road in the blue car, cutting through the surf with the salt spray in their eyes; idling on the sand of Seabeach. All this time she had been holding herself frozen and aloof, all the time she had been cowering herself into disdain of him, she had wanted Carl. The whimsy in his eyes. The swing of his shoulders when he walked. The set of his head as he looked at her. The set of his head as he looked at her.

She, Anne Austin, was actually languishing at a window for the sight of a chauffeur. She wanted to be out there, somewhere, with Carl Case. She was infatuated with him. It might even be that she loved him. No, not love. That was too absurd. Infatuation, born of loneliness and of proximity. At any rate, there was no need, at the moment to fight against a fact so warm, so thrilling. She was safe enough, here in her room.

But suppose she did not remain in her room? Suppose she stole out, down the thickly padded stairs, along the dim halls—out into the garden. Nights like this were not made for sleep. They were made for youth, for star dust, for gardens. She turned, drew a dark coat over her shoulders, closed her door noise-

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

LAW FOR EVERYONE

Many persons have the peculiar idea that the laws of contract bridge are only for experts. This is absurd. The laws which have been adopted and used by the leading bridge clubs of the United States, and other countries, are for everyone who plays the game. Whether he be a beginner or a national champion. Nobody is exempt. The penalty for a revoke is just as much a part of the game as the point value of two hearts bid and made. If any player makes a bid out of turn and a penalty is applicable, the enforcement of such penalty is part of the game. It does not imply personal punishment. To insist upon a penalty whether you must pay it yourself or exact it from an opponent is playing the game correctly, according to the rules.

Players who engage in so-called "family" bridge, without enforcing penalties for violations of the laws, are virtually bridge anarchists. They make their own laws and create "house" rules that add nothing to the game. They might just as well make clubs the highest ranking suit, deuces wild, or the player taking the least number of tricks, the winner.

It is my belief that strict observance of the laws, no matter how informal the game may be, will make for a finer, more satisfying and more thoroughly interesting pastime than would otherwise be possible.

UNBIDDABLE, BUT MADE

The Culbertson system of slam bidding enables players to reach most makable slams. Some slams, however, can not be bid because their making depends upon a lot of fortunate accidents in the lay of the cards. To this group belongs today's hand on which, through careful play, declarer made an entirely unbiddable slam.

1. A strong bid when made by a player who has opened the bidding himself. Inherently it is a mild slam try.

2. With very nearly a minimum (about 10) and no fit in the diamond suit, South sees no great prospect of more than game.

THE PLAY

West opened the king of clubs, which was taken by dummy's ace. Declarer decided that there was plenty of time to set up the diamond suit and tackled the trump suit first. Playing a hunch, he led the queen of spades, with magnificent results.

The jack of spades was picked up by the queen, which was allowed to hold, and declarer next finessed the nine. Two high diamonds and a diamond ruff produced another fortunate result, the suit breaking 3-3. It was now simply itself to lay down the ace of trumps, ruff a club, and run dummy's three diamonds, declarer discarding his remaining three losers. The ace of hearts and a trump took the last two tricks.

Although seven was made through the declarer's careless gymnastics, I doubt if even six should be bid. A heart opening, followed by a more normal method of tackling the trumps will see the declarer making only five-odd.

"No," explained the little girl. "They are not needed there."

NOVELTY, SPEED IN TENSE STORY

Chester Morris Stars in "Society Doctor" — Plot Surrounds Hospital Activities

"Society Doctor," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture featuring Chester Morris and Virginia Bruce at the Dominion Theatre, is one of those rare pictures which make audiences sit up in their seats.

It is an engrossing story of a series of gripping dramas that involve a group of characters in a metropolitan emergency hospital within the short period of eight hours.

Within eight hours, the secret marriage of a young bride and groom is discovered while the bridegroom lies under the surgeon's knife on an operating table. A rebellious young interne is fired, then rehired when all his illusions of professional ethics crash upon the rocks of stark reality.

A policeman, lying near death with a gunman's bullet in him, is avenged when the officer's wife slays the gunman within the hospital.

These and many more are the gripping situations that are crowded into "Society Doctor," which moves at a rapid pace throughout the entire drama.

COLUMBIA Hobart Cavanaugh THEATRE considers himself the protean expert of the Warner Bros. lot. One morning he worked with Joan Crawford and Pat O'Brien in "I've Got Your Number," now showing at the Columbia Theatre. Then he turned out in full regalia to play in "Fashions of 1934." Still later he had to appear on the "Wonder Bar" set with Al Jolson. He was a little out of breath, but was able to make all the engagements.

CAPITOL For the first time in the THEATRE history of the screen the stellar combination of Joan Crawford, Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery are seen together in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Forsaking All Others." This new picture is now at the Capitol Theatre. Each of the men has scored his biggest hits with Miss Crawford, but never have they appeared together before.

PLAYHOUSE "What Every Woman Knows," Helen Hayes' latest starring picture which opened yesterday at the Playhouse Theatre, is a triumphal return for the star after a year's absence from the screen. After one of the most successful seasons in the history of the New York stage in "Mary of Scotland," Miss Hayes came back to Hollywood for the immortal role of Maggie in Sir James Barrie's famous romance, and has reached new emotional heights.

LOCAL PICTURE WILL BE SHOWN ON FRIDAY

"The Black Robe," Victoria's motion picture, filmed and produced at Willows Park, will have its premiere Canadian showing at the Empire Theatre, Friday, March 8, at 8:30 p.m.

The production is an adaptation from Guy Morton's widely-read novel of the same title and will be recalled by the sensation it created shortly after its publication. The story provides exceptionally fine material to be transferred to the motion-picture screen and the director, Fred Noymer, according to New York critics, took full advantage of his opportunity and turned out a production that is on a par with many of the feature pictures produced by the major companies of Hollywood.

Nick Stuart, who shares honors in heading the cast with Lucille Brown, gives a brilliant performance as Robert Rand and carries the bulk of the action on his shoulders and the term "brave" is well used for Nick's current role is one of thrilling adventures and hair-breadth escapes from death.

REDECORATION OF THE ROMANO IS COMPLETED

The Romano Theatre has now been reopened under new management. The entire theatre has been renovated and redecorated and several new pictures have been booked. Ginger Rogers is now appearing on the screen in "Sitting Pretty," a gay musical comedy with action. George Raft is also on the same bill in "The Under-Cover Man."

Canadian Trappers Harvesting Furs

Fur trappers are now gathering their annual catch throughout the Canadian Northland, and despite the drop in fur prices in recent years, the fur trapping industry still amounts to more than $10,000,000 a year, with 4,500,000 pelts valued at that figure by the last Government figures. Photos show, right, a timber wolf and its equally furry trapper in Northern Ontario. Left, below, trappers in the north woods on the trail. Upper left, a fisher caught in a trap.

Air Ministry Will Take Over Machine That Won Big Race

Scott and Black's Plane to Be Used in Research and Experimental Work—Comets Interest France and Portugal

LONDON, March 4.—Three governments have ordered Comet monoplane of the type that won the speed and handicap races from England to Australia last October. The British Air Ministry has arranged to purchase the actual machine in which C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black won the races, flying from Mildenhall to Melbourne in seventy-one hours' elapsed time. It will be used in research and experimental work.

France has ordered two Comets, which will be delivered to the French Service Technique for a series of experimental flights with mails across the South Atlantic Ocean. Portugal has purchased the Comet "Black Magic" from Mr. and Mrs. Molison. Its first enterprise in Portuguese hands will be a flight from London to Rio de Janeiro, by way of Lisbon.

TRIBUTE TO BRITISH

Especially does the French order pay tribute to British aeronautical engineering. France is one of the leading aircraft designing nations, with a highly developed aircraft industry and a splendid history of achievement in aviation. Her Government experts have recognized frankly that in the Comet, the outstanding airplane of 1934, the British designers have produced a flying machine that marks a new and important step forward. Some of the clearest French designers are at present engaged on machines exactly similar to the Comet, but they will not be ready to take the air for many months, and France has wisely decided to lose no time in making the vital experiments in mail transportation for which the Comet she is buying are primarily intended. Incidentally, her action and that of three other Governments—including Belgium, which chartered a Comet for the recent record-breaking mail flight from Brussels to the Belgian Congo and back—should dispose once and for all of the gibe that the Comet is simply a racing plane of no practical use.

THE FRENCH ORDER

The French order is the sequel to the visit of a special mission, recorded recently, to the De Havilland factory at Hatfield. The two aircraft will be fitted with radio apparatus and used for the carriage of express air mails across the South Atlantic, under the direct supervision of Mr. Mermoz, chief air French pilot, on the South American run, who was one of the members of the mission and himself flew a Comet at Hatfield. He is likely to be one of the pilots engaged in the experimental flights, which will be made with a load of about 100 kilograms of mails (220 pounds), or about 9,000 letters. Mr. Mermoz believes that the work of carrying mails can be entrusted more profitably to a fleet of small and extremely fast mailplanes, even over thousands of miles of ocean, than to a much smaller number of larger and relatively slow-flying boats. His theories are now to be put to the test.

RECAPITULATION

A brief recapitulation of some leading Comet statistics explains the world-wide technical interest which it has aroused. Within the design limitations imposed by the international requirements that govern the airworthiness of an ordinary airliner, the Comet twin-engine monoplane attains a maximum level speed of nearly 240 miles an hour, and has a range in still air on one fuel load of 3,100 miles. It cruises at 225 m.p.h. at a height of 10,000 feet above sea-level. Disposable load carried within the weight limits of its airworthiness certificate is nearly equal to its empty weight. Its outstanding performance is linked with exceptionally small expenditure of power and economical running; in the England-Australia air races the two 224-h.p. special Gipsy-Six motors consumed fuel between them at the rate of approximately twelve miles to the gallon. Comets have set new records for every stage of the England-Australia journey. They also hold the record of thirteen and one-quarter days for the flight England-Melbourne-England and the Brussels-Congo-Brussels record.

SOL DUC LOST IN HEAVY FOG

Ferry Boat Went Aground on Soft Bottom on Guemes Island

SEATTLE, March 4 (AP).—Losing her way in heavy fog, the steamer Sol Duc, of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, plying between Seattle and Bellingham, went aground in mud early today on Guemes Island, across the channel from Anacortes.

The steamer Olympic, which has been idle in Lake Washington here, was prepared to take over the Sol Duc's run, although the latter was not believed to be damaged.

The Sol Duc left here last night with passengers and freight for Anacortes and Bellingham.

Before the Premier's Name Was Changed

On October 8, 1892, the Ss. Premier was in collision with the collier Ss. Willamette, off Marrowstone Point, above Port Townsend. The heavy coal-carrier ploughed right into the ferry vessel, cutting her down from the cabin to below the waterline, killing several passengers and injuring others. The ships were so tightly interlocked that the Willamette pushed the Premier across the Sound and beached her in twenty-four feet of water near Bush Point. The Premier was built for the Canadian Pacific Navigation Company for service between Victoria and Seattle. Following the collision, Captain John Irving, manager of the local company, lost no time in refloating her and brought her to Victoria, much to the disgust of Seattle lawyers, who had "plastered" the ship for damages. The Premier's name was changed then to Chatterer, and placed under Canadian registry. She was sold last month by Canadian Pacific Steamships to the Capital Iron & Metal Company. She will be broken up.

VESSEL WENT TO MAINLAND

Vancouver Tender Lowest for Taihei Maru Repairs—Jefferson in Tomorrow

When the tenders for repairs to the cranks of the Japanese freighter Taihei Maru were opened Sunday, the lowest bidder proved to be the Burrard Drydock Company, of Vancouver. The bid was $16,000. Immediately the award was made, preparations were pushed to get the vessel to Vancouver. She left Esquimalt harbor, where she was surveyed, Sunday afternoon in tow of the Ss. Salvage King, and arrived at the Mainland port yesterday morning. It is understood the job will require approximately twenty-four days to complete.

Inbound from the Philippines by way of China and Japan ports, the American Mail Line Ss. President Jefferson is due to reach Wharf Head at noon tomorrow, according to word received here yesterday by W. M. Allan, local representative of the steamship company. The Jefferson was scheduled to arrive here this morning. The liner is bringing passengers, mails and cargo for Victoria, the latter comprising 350 tons of general.

STILL GOING STRONG Showing something of her old-time form in the way of speed, the Ss. Princess Victoria is operating on the triangle run for several days. She went out Sunday on the Seattle leg of the triangle and lost no time on the run to the Puget Sound port. The Victoria is relieving the Ss. Princess Alice until Thursday, when she will proceed to Nanaimo to replace the Ss. Princess Elaine for a month, while the latter vessel is undergoing seasonal overhaul.

Last night the Pacific Steamship Lines went on the air, the broadcast originating in Seattle. All manner of things are advertised by radio, and R. Stanley Dollar evidently thought it was high time water transportation was among the number. The idea was tested last week from California stations, and there will be six more broadcasts from the Seattle station, the nights chosen being Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The broadcast announces that a free round-trip ticket between Pacific Coast ports of call will be given to the party responsible for selling ten round-trip tickets between Northwest points and California, or vice versa.

To date, a total of thirty-two vessels are posted to load at New Westminster during March, this number including ships now at the Fraser River port, according to advices received from there. This is a considerable gain over last month and shows a marked improvement in the shipping situation at the river port.

GERMAN CRUISER Apparently Vancouver is going to be the only Northwest port to entertain the German cruiser Karlsruhe. The craft will not visit Seattle, although Seattleites will have an opportunity to see the ship during the week of March 15, through a special excursion which will leave the Puget Sound port aboard the Ss. Princess Alice, for Victoria.

South America is making big efforts to attract tourists, according to Grace Line officials. Chile is waiving passports, vaccination certificates, while other official documents will not be required of passengers making the round trip on the same ship and voyage.

Jim McMullen Is Squash Champion

VANCOUVER, March 4 (CP).—Jim McMullen, of Vancouver, is British Columbia's new squash champion and holder of the Jukes-Golden trophy. He dethroned the former titleholder, Dr. Jack Wright, once Canadian tennis king, in a grueling match, by scores of 3-9, 2-9, 9-5, 9-3, 9-5.

REGGIE J. McNAMARA OF SIX-DAY BIKE FAME

Known to six-day bicycle race fans all over the world, this 30-year-old veteran of the wooden oval stands out as an example of how much the human system can absorb in knocks, shocks, and continuous punishment.

Reggie J. McNamara is undoubtedly a wonder man. An old man, a veteran of thirty years of racing, yet still the king in his chosen field. He demonstrates, year after year, that age is no barrier to success if you "have what it takes." Twice the all-around champion of America, he has participated in more than one hundred six-day competitions. (Almost two years of continuous riding.)

He is the holder of many world records, ranging from one to fifty miles; he has raced in every country in the world where six-day races are held. He has to his credit sixteen first-place positions in these grinds.

He has had his collarbone broken thirteen times, innumerable rib fractures and his jaw smashed twice. On several occasions he has suffered from fractures of the skull. Grit seems to have been the predominant characteristic in his make-up ever since his youth. Bitten on the finger, in his native habitat, Australia, by a snake when a boy, and advised by an older brother that the member must come off or he would die, Reggie allowed the older boy to lop off the bitten finger. The boy who was not afraid to take punishment developed into the man who has taken enough punishment to kill half a dozen ordinary men, and he has taken it all with a smile.

Oldtimers of the bike game, managers and competitors are all agreed that no rider has ever lived to quite compare with Reggie McNamara for gameness, stamina, and all-round skill in six-day bike racing. Every sport has its iron man. Sometimes they have toppled from their pedestal by the advent of a more colorful, more spectacular figure, but it seems almost beyond the bounds of possibility that six-day bicycle racing will ever again produce a man of the all-round calibre of Reggie McNamara.

Oaklands Gain Top Position in Senior School Rugby Series

Hughie McMillan Stars as Squad Defeats Margaret Jenkins, 6-3, in Colonist Cup Fixture—North Ward Wins From South Park

COLONIST CUP SERIES

	W	L	D	Pt
Oaklands	3	0	1	7
Boys' Central	2	0	2	6
Margaret Jenkins	2	1	5	5
North Ward	1	3	0	2
South Park	0	4	0	0

Scoring a try in each half, both of which went unconverted, Oaklands School senior Rugby squad yesterday afternoon defeated Margaret Jenkins, 6-3, at the Victoria High School grounds, in the final fixture of the first half of the Colonist Cup series. The win placed Oaklands at the top of the heap in the trophy race, one point in front of Boys' Central. Playing inspired Rugby, North Ward recorded their initial win in the series when they thumped South Park for a 21-0 victory at the Royal Athletic Park.

WINNING TRY

Plunging over the Margaret Jenkins' line in the dying seconds of the game, Hughie "Lugs" McMillan, diminutive halfback, scored the try that gave Oaklands a 6-3 victory over Margaret Jenkins at the High School grounds. Oaklands had the better of the argument and gained the final points after a ten-minute assault on the Jenkins' line.

Oaklands gained their first points of the game ten minutes after the teams got into action; when a beautiful three-quarter run, in which the complete backfield participated, resulted in Farmer, wing three-quarter, scoring. The kick for extra points failed.

Battling hard to stave off their initial defeat, Margaret Jenkins equalized mid-way through the final half when Jack Macpherson scored a penalty goal. The Margaret Jenkins scored with a beautiful punt. Oaklands carried play down the field with the ball at their feet, and after one or two dangerous assaults on Margaret Jenkins' line, McMillan went over following a five-yard scrum. The kick failed.

Doswell refereed and the teams followed: Oaklands—Bowles, Farmer, Joyce, Smith, Carter, Billsborough, McMillan, Packford, Kennedy, Jealouse, Milne, Darley and Painter. Margaret Jenkins—B. Dunaway, Anstey, Bannister, King, Ludbrook, Merriman, Hooper, C. Dunaway, Greene, Hubbs, Miller, Twelves and Macpherson.

NORTH WARD WINS

Two tries by Couch and one by E. Sage, which was converted, gave North Ward an 11-0 lead over South Park in the initial half of their fixture at the Royal Athletic Park. In the final canto Couch and Wallace scored, and Munroe and A. Sage added the extra points on two good kicks.

COFFEE

"They have in Turkey a drink called coffee. This drink comforteth the brain and heart and helpeth digestion."

So wrote Bacon about three centuries ago, about the beverage that nobody had yet tasted, but whose growth in popularity was to become as widespread as tobacco.

The origin of "coffee" will at first blush surprise perhaps even the hard-boiled readers of this column. For we have it from the Turkish gahveh (Arabic gahuah), meaning wine, a decoction of berries.

There is no foundation for the vouchsafed tale of the discovery of coffee, that it was introduced to the world by the discovery of an oozy-gooey goatherd who was intrigued by the antics of his charges while browsing upon the drooping of the coffee tree in Arabia.

Husband: "Dinner isn't ready?"

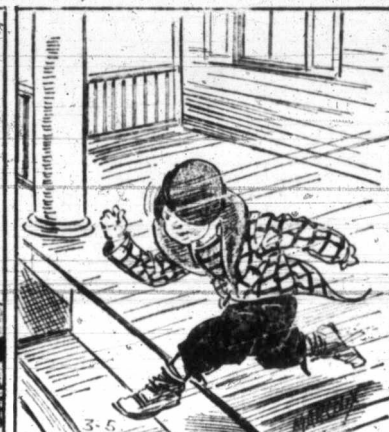

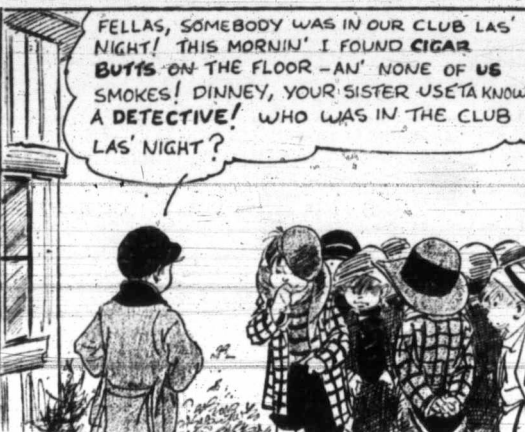

Wife: "No: I've been shopping all day."

Looking for something for nothing, I suppose.

"This is putting it a bit severe. I was trying to get you a present."

MAY OUST PLAN FOR COLLECTING

Municipal Committee Balks at Move to Add Charges to Tax Arrears

The proposal to add arrears for services such as water, power, light and gas, when provided by a municipality to the tax arrears, making them collectible as ordinary taxes on land, was again before the municipal committee of the legislature yesterday morning.

The matter will be considered later, but yesterday the committee favored eliminating all services but water from this mode of collection. It was explained that already there is a provision in the act for joining these arrears with taxes, and including them in the taxes, for which the land may be sold at tax sale. This provision, however, has not been found workable and this year the proposition was offered under amendments submitted by the minister, to make it operative.

WANT CLARIFYING
Reeves A. D. Paterson, of Delta, and R. M. Grauer, of Richmond, wanted information as to when the water dues might be expected to be made collectible. Commissioner H. M. Fraser, of Burnaby, was against double means being used to collect from the owner of land with regard to water. They had the ordinary means of collecting now, he stated.

Mrs. Paul Smith said supplying these services by a municipality was really the invasion of what was generally the duty of a commercial corporation to supply. If the municipality went into a commercial undertaking then it should be obliged to use the same means of collecting its debts.

The chairman, Norman Whitaker, presented a resolution protesting against the move, along the lines suggested by Mrs. Smith.

MINISTER'S VIEWS

The Minister of Municipalities pointed out that a water by-law was passed by the municipality as a whole, and why should one owner be called upon to pay his rightful share, and another go clear.

S. S. McKen said that, in the matter of water, it might be somewhat different, but he did not see why power and gas should be included in the amendment.

A motion by Mrs. Smith and H. Anscomb to eliminate power, light and gas from the operation of the amendment, and only allow water to remain, was met by a suggestion of E. H. Bridgman that the matter stand over to ascertain the position of the union.

Legion Council Suggests Plans for Memorial Ave.

Canadian Ex-Service Organization Committee Advances Proposals for Shelbourne Street Beautification—Nine Features in Report Endorsed

The Victoria and District Council, Canadian Legion, which for some time past has had under consideration suggestions and proposals for the renovation and perpetual upkeep of Memorial Avenue, has recently been in contact with the city beautification committee, and as a result of these conversations, the committee of the district council, Frank Partridge, R. B. Matheson and D. G. Holmes, was requested to draw up the ideas and proposals of this council and submit same to the beautification committee. The committee accordingly drew up certain proposals which have received the district council's endorsement, and are as follows:

"1. That Memorial Avenue be located on Shelbourne Street, wholly within the Municipality of Saanich, from North Dairy Road to the entrance to Mount Douglas Park.

"2. That a natural lumber archway be erected at each end of the avenue suitably signed to designate the entrance to the avenue from either end.

"3. That no further work or improvements to the avenue be undertaken unless due provision is made for the perpetual and proper upkeep of such work or improvements.

UNDERGROUND WIRES

"4. That the public utility companies be asked to do one of three things: first, to put all wires underground; second, to relocate all poles and wires away from Memorial Avenue in the rear of premises; or, third, to move and relocate any wires or poles that are now or will in the future interfere with the proper growth and appearance of the trees.

"5. That after the ground around the trees is properly prepared, red poppy seed be planted each year, or that the plants be allowed to seed and volunteer each year with necessary care and moisture provided.

"6. It is suggested that interested or bereaved residents of our district would be willing to stand the cost of planting and maintaining one or two trees each in memory of the fallen.

EVERGREEN TREES

"7. It is also suggested that all ornamental trees on the avenue might be of the evergreen or coniferous variety, which would not look so bare in the Fall and Winter seasons. Certain of these trees obtain their moisture from the air and would not require much attention, but great care and thought would have to be given to the question of choice of variety, as some trees will not thrive if not supported and protected by others in close proximity. We would suggest that the expert advice of the Forestry Department be obtained in this regard, also keeping in mind the thought that the location or use of trees, the roots of which will not interfere too greatly in future years with water mains, sewers, etc.

"8. That after the trees are properly planted and cared for, the next step should be to endeavor to boulevard the avenue, same not to be undertaken unless perpetual upkeep is assured.

"9. If due to the cost of the undertaking and its perpetual upkeep it is thought advisable to reduce the length of the avenue, the suggestion is made that the avenue extend from say 100 yards north of Cedar Hill Crossroad to Mount Douglas Park, with an archway at each end and as before outlined."

PORTABLE RADIO BIG POLICE AID

Constable Wilfred Conlan, Headquarters Operator Here, Builds Fine Set for Force

A thirty-pound dual action radio, portable and easily handled, made its appearance yesterday as a valuable addition to the Provincial Police radio network in British Columbia, when Constable Wilfred Conlan, operator at headquarters here, completed the set.

Highly compact, the set has two tubes and has a radius of between 300 and 400 miles. A second set is expected to be completed within ten days, Constable Conlan said.

In a test made during the week, the set acted perfectly, reception being quite clear between headquarters, Nelson, Vancouver and Kamloops.

The sets will be particularly valuable to constables on the long patrols officers are required to make at intervals in all types of weather. The set allows the officer to be in communication with headquarters at all times.

Colonel J. H. McMullin, commissioner of police, warmly praised Constable Conlan's work, stating the department was fortunate in having a member on the staff with his technical ability.

Constable Conlan built the sets in spare moments between messages being received and sent from headquarters.

thing for you to cultivate is a kindly consideration for the time, as well as feelings of those with whom you are thrown into daily contact. Avoid dealing in personalities, as much as possible. Remember that through your tongue you can make friends or enemies. Tact is comparatively a rare virtue, but a mighty valuable one to have. Music, art, literature, geology, as well as mineralogy, offer excellent opportunities, if studied enthusiastically.

RENEWALS CLAIM OF DYKE LANDS

Delta Owners Will Be Given Notice of Proposition So They Can Object

The question of giving power to Delta Municipality to take over and exercise authority over land lying immediately beneath dikes, put in by a municipality, was again before the municipal committee of the Legislature yesterday, when Reeves A. D. Paterson, of Delta, pressed for action to save the dikes. It was not proposed, he said, to take away any rights. All that was sought was to be able to keep the dikes in repair. There were only two in the municipality, he said, who had objections.

On the suggestion of the Minister, Hon. A. Wells Gray, it was decided to postpone action until the owners were given an opportunity to be heard. In the meantime, notices will be posted to allow owners to register objection.

Do not let a grouchy spirit rob you of your sense of humor on this date, for it is possible to might be needed to carry you through the day in the right mental attitude. As the situation which may arise probably will have a ridiculous side, you will be in the position to laugh it out of existence instead of getting angry. In business, controversies should be avoided, if possible, by trying compromising proposals instead of arbitrary demands. Contracts involving money should not be hastily signed. It might be well to have legal advice if important issues are involved, as sometimes an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Married and engaged couples, as well as those whose hearts are seriously involved in a love affair, will show good judgment if they will stick to actual facts on this date instead of resorting to fiction.

If a woman, and March 5 is your birthday, you will assure yourself of a great deal more happiness through your life if you never permit yourself to become an extremist in any line of thought. You will display wisdom if you always weigh carefully the opinions of others before expressing your own. To achieve the maximum amount of success you must be broadminded. You possess excellent taste and a skillful touch, which if used commercially, should prove a valuable asset. Commercial art, designing, interior decorating, or selling artistic things, should be very lucrative. You should find a great deal of happiness through marriage, if you will only remember it is a game of "give and take."

The child born on March 5, usually when it reaches the age of youth, must learn that while self assurance is a very important trait to possess, modesty of demeanor is also a most essential virtue, and must be practiced daily if popularity is desired.

If a man, and March 5 is your natal day and success your goal, then possibly the most important

Favors Bill to Control Uplands

The proposal of Oak Bay for legislation to make it possible for the municipality to continue the restrictions, regarding building and subdivision of lots, in the area known as the Uplands, was formally brought to the attention of the municipal committee of the Legislature yesterday, Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Municipalities, informed the committee of the request.

He said that rather than have the powers given by amendment to the Municipal Act, he would favor a separate bill. The powers sought, he explained, were simply those of conveying the right to control to the municipality of Oak Bay. This will be dealt with later.

"I am sorry, madam," said the butcher firmly, "but I can't give you further credit. Your bill is bigger now than it should be."

"Yes, I know that," said the lady, coldly, "if you will make it out for what it should be, I'll pay it."

Little Stories for Bedtime

Bowser's Great Voice

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

There is as much difference in the voice of dogs as in the voices of human beings. For that matter, this is true of many of the little people who wear fur. Bowser the Hound had a wonderful, deep, clear voice, a voice that could be heard a great distance. No one who knew it would ever mistake it for the voice of any other than Bowser.

As a rule Bowser seldom used that great voice of his, save when he was grunting someone. Then when the scent was strong he gave tongue so fast that you wondered how he had breath enough left to run. But now that he was a prisoner of kindness in the home of the people who had taken him in when he had crept to their doorstep, Bowser sometimes bayed from sheer homesickness. When he was tied out in the yard he would sometimes get to thinking of his home and longing to see Farmer Brown and Mrs.

That dog is homesick," croaked Blacky.

Brown, and especially his master, Farmer Brown's Boy. Then when he could stand it no longer, he would open his mouth and send his great voice rolling across to the woods with a tone of mournfulness, which never had been there before. But great as was Bowser's voice and far as it would carry, there was none who knew him to hear it save Blacky the Crow. You remember that Blacky knew just where Bowser was and often flew over that farmyard to make sure that Bowser was still there. So more than once Blacky heard Bowser's great voice with its mournful note and understood it.

It troubled Blacky. Yes, sir, it actually troubled Blacky. He knew just what was the matter with Bowser, but for the life of him he couldn't think of any way of helping Bowser. "That dog is homesick," croaked Blacky as he sat in the top of a tall tree scratching his head, as if he thought he might scratch an idea out of it. "Of course, he doesn't know how to get home, and if he tried he probably would get as badly lost as he was before. They don't give him a chance to try, anyway. I can't lead Farmer Brown's Boy over here, because he doesn't understand my talk and I don't understand him. There isn't a thing I can do but keep watch. I wish Bowser would stop barking. It makes me feel uncomfortable. Yes, sir, it makes me feel uncomfortable. Old man Coyote got Bowser into this trouble and he ought to get him out again, but I don't suppose it is the least bit of use to ask him. It won't do any harm to try, anyway."

So Blacky started back for the Green Forest and the Old Pasture near Farmer Brown's to look for Old Man Coyote, and for a long time he could hear Bowser's voice with its note of homesickness and longing.

Next Story—Blacky Tries to Get Help.

Mr. Rudyard Kipling is probably the only living Englishman of letters who has been "done" as one of the sights of London. Soon after his first settlement in the metropolis he was visited by a hustling American and his two sons. Bursting in, the visitor asked briskly: "You are Rudyard Kipling?" On being answered he turned to his sons with, "Boys, this is Rudyard Kipling." "And this is where you write?" "Boys, this is where I write." And before the post-novelist could ask his name they were gone!
